Eden Wins Divorce; May Lose Chance As Premier

LONDON (AP) — Former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden won a divorce decree today by testifying that his attractive brunette wife deserted him in 1947 to live in the United States.

Eden, whose political ambitions as deputy Conservative leader may be jeopardized by divorce in strait-laced Britain, was granted a decree nisi in a five-minute hearing before Justice Francis Hodson.

The dapper, greying Eden—still handsome at 53—told the court in a firm voice that his wife insisted on visiting the United States in 1946, that he accompanied her there and that she then refused to return to her native Britain.

Mrs. Eden, 45, who has spent most of her time since 1945 in the U.S. and Bermuda, was not represented at the hearing. She did not contest the action.

A United Press report from New York quoted Mrs. Eden as saying "so what" today when told her husband had been granted a divorce.

Mrs. Eden said she did not think the divorce would harm her husband's long governmental career.

"I hope not anyway," she said. "It's my fault, you know. After all he got the divorce."

A decree nisi becomes absolute in six weeks under British divorce law, unless there is an objection raised in court.

Eden was the only witness at the hearing.

Friends of the deputy Conservative leader had speculated he would avoid divorce because of the probable effect on his political career. As the recognized deputy to Winston Churchill, Eden was in line for eventual leadership of the Conservative Party—and the post of Prime Minister when and if the Tories regain power.

Some observers predicted his five-minute appearance in divorce court today virtually ended any chances he might have had of ever becoming Prime Minister.

They recalled that the stamp of divorce, regardless of cause, was practically an unsurmountable barrier to leadership in the British government.

Other observers said, however, that Eden's stature in Conservative politics might break that unwritten law of British political and social life.

Col. Astor was elected on motion by Senator Davies, chairman of the union's Canadian section. Second was Maj.-Gen. Lord Burnham of the London Daily Telegraph.

Sir Keith Murdoch of the Melbourne, Australia Herald, and Col. Astor proposed Senator Davies' election.

The conference's 61 delegates, meeting to consider methods of ensuring freedom of the press, earlier named committees to operate throughout the session which ends June 27 at Muskoka, Ont.

Pay Cheques Late, Linemen Quit Job

WINNIPEG (BUP) — Nearly 200 Manitoba telephone system linemen remained off their jobs today in a walkout protesting delays in receiving their pay cheques.

The linemen walked out Wednesday in an unsanctioned wildcat strike, but were to return to work this morning.

Company officials said, however, the men had not returned this morning as expected.

The men are members of the A.E.L. Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The union did not authorize the walkout, which affected only Winnipeg workers.

C.S.U. Likely To Be Expelled From World Federation

LONDON (Reuters) — Three Communist-led trade unions, including the Canadian Seamen's Union, whose fight with Canadian ship-owners and rival unions led to the London docks strike last summer, will be proposed for final expulsion from the International Transport Workers' Federation at its Congress in Stuttgart, July 21-29.

The federation's executive has already broken off relations with C.S.U., the New Zealand Waterside Workers' Union and the Finnish Transport Workers' Union.

Last November the federation set up a special committee to combat "Communist interference."

ALL FOODS HIGH

Meat Prices Still Go Up In U.S. Led By Beef

CHICAGO (UP) — Meat prices are skyrocketing, led by the rising price of beef, a United Press survey in 19 cities of the U.S. showed today.

The higher prices in meat—near record levels in some cities—are part of a general pattern in which housewives are paying more for almost all types of foods.

The Dun and Bradstreet market report showed wholesale food prices at their highest level since Jan. 18, 1949. The index rose six cents during the past week to a level of 36. A year ago it stood at 3.73 and it was 36.02 on Jan. 18, 1949.

Flour, oats, ham, lard, cheese, coffee, cocoa, eggs, potatoes, raisins and lamb were listed as selling for higher prices. But beef and hogs were among foods showing a declining somewhat during the past week.

The agriculture department warned, meanwhile, that prices of most meats would remain high throughout the summer.

The United Press survey showed the average price of meat had increased substantially since a year ago, with the biggest rise shown in the last month. Beef, particularly the better cuts, increased the most. Lamb and pork rose only slightly and declined in some cities.

90,000 Strike Ballots Sent To Railwaymen

MONTREAL (CP) — Fifteen international brotherhoods involved in a wages-hours dispute with Canadian railways announced today that they are distributing 90,000 strike ballots and the returnable date is July 24.

The announcement came from Frank H. Hall, chairman of the negotiating committee of the unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The unions sought from the railroads a 40-hour week in place of the present 48-hour week plus a seven-cents hourly general wage increase. A federal conciliation board in April recommended a compromise which was accepted by the carriers but rejected by the union executive.

ALL TO VOTE

The strike ballots being distributed will ask union members whether they wish to go on strike to back their executive.

Mr. Hall said the reason the returnable date was set at July 24 was to allow time to cover many remote areas and enable the members, in many cases where desirable, to have lodge meetings.

The railways involved are Canadian Pacific Railway, Canadian National Railway, Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway and Ontario Northland Railway.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.), whose 30,000 members are also involved in a dispute with the railways over similar demands, has also announced that it intends taking a strike ballot.

Times' Astor Heads Empire Press Union

QUEBEC CITY (BUP) — Col. J. J. Astor of the London Times today was re-elected president of the Empire Press Union at the seventh annual imperial press conference in Quebec city.

Senator W. Robert Davies of the Kingston, Ontario, Whig-Standard was named vice-president.

Col. Astor was elected on motion by Senator Davies, chairman of the union's Canadian section. Second was Maj.-Gen. Lord Burnham of the London Daily Telegraph.

Sir Keith Murdoch of the Melbourne, Australia Herald, and Col. Astor proposed Senator Davies' election.

The conference's 61 delegates, meeting to consider methods of ensuring freedom of the press, earlier named committees to operate throughout the session which ends June 27 at Muskoka, Ont.

Plane Crash Survivors Rescued

Tokyo Posters Attacking U.S.

TOKYO (UP) — The first anti-U.S. posters to appear in Tokyo since the war blossomed on the walls of theatres and railway stations today as the Communists intensified their campaign of denunciation against Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

One series of posters said: "No Americans—no bases for America!" And another charged that U.S. movies were destroying the Japanese movie industry.

The posters were the first Communist literature to attack the U.S. by name. Previous Communist leaflets and posters had attacked "foreign imperialists and capitalists."

At the same time another series of red, white and blue posters calling on the Japanese to support MacArthur and outlaw the Communist Party also appeared. They were signed by Akira Fujidaira, head of the Japanese anti-V.R.V.D.E.V.; there was no indication when action would be taken, but observers believed it would be soon if the Communists continued their campaign against the occupation.

Communist members of the Diet said at a press conference today the party would continue to fight Premier Shigeru Yoshida's attempts to "transform Japan into a military base."

Meanwhile Kiyoshi Asai of Japan's Civil Service Commission conferred with occupation authorities on steps to oust Communists from government jobs.

Draft Men For Sandbagging At St. Francis

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP) — All able-bodied men today were called out to sandbag the Point Park area of Fort Francis as Rainy Lake edged within a fraction of an inch of its all-time high.

High water which had already eaten away large chunks of shoreline began pouring over the road fronting a cluster of cottages. An east wind such as blew Wednesday would cause serious damage to shoreline and property.

The huge J. A. Mathieu sawmill, four miles northeast of here on Rainy's shore, was closed down Wednesday night after a week-long battle to keep the mill open.

Canadian National Railway's spokesmen said the line is operating "with difficulty" over many flooded stretches of track. Bridges were weighted down with rails as water crept up on the trestles.

Twenty-five miles east of Bear's Pass wrecking crews still were working to clear the remains of 14 freight cars knocked off the line by a wash-out Tuesday night.

Near Frost, Snow Back On Prairies

REGINA (BUP) — Regina residents took one look out their windows today and then hustled to get their winter coats out of mothballs.

A heavy, wet snow was falling, driven by a brisk breeze. The temperature was just above freezing.

Vote Fraud Claimed

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Communist North Koreans, terming the May 30 election in South Korea fraudulent, today called for a general election throughout North and South Korea in August.

Three Hurt In Crash

NEW WESTMINSTER (BUP) — A truck-car collision on the Trans-Canada Highway at Surrey Wednesday night injured three Burnaby persons. Oscar Alton, 64, suffered an injured left shoulder, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shether were treated for injuries at the Royal Columbian Hospital and then released.

Red Move In Germany May Violate Big Four Agreement

BERLIN (AP) — Russia today named civilians to replace four military rulers in east Germany in a move apparently designed to bolster the prestige of the Communist East German State.

The changes accelerated the switch from military to civilian control in the Russian zone and were accompanied by indications that new responsibilities were being delegated to the area's Communist-controlled German government.

Allied observers believed, however, the changes did not mean that Moscow was loosening its grip on east Germany but rather was pulling the Kremlin-created state closer toward early partnership as a full-fledged satellite in the Soviet bloc.

LONDON (AP) — A Foreign Office spokesman said today appointment of a civilian to replace the Soviet military commandant in Berlin seems inconsistent with four-power agreements.

He recalled that the Big Four Foreign Ministers agreed last year to try to set up again as a functioning organization the four-power military Kommandatura which ran Berlin affairs.

Planes, 'Copters Press Wide Search For Others

YARMOUTH, Eng. (UP) — Ships rescued today four of the 11 U.S. crewmen aboard a B-29 Super Fortress which crashed in flames in the North Sea.

Planes, helicopters and ships pressed a widespread search for seven crewmen still missing.

The survivors and one body were found some 18 miles off this east England seaport, where the big bomber went down Wednesday night with its No. 4 engine in flames.

But hours after the crash no wreckage had been sighted.

Six sister B-29's attached to the U.S. Air Force 3rd Division took part in the search along with three B-17 Flying Fortresses from Wiesbaden, Germany, and a B-17 Skymaster from on English base.

Two of the survivors, Capt. Henry Walsh, pilot, and Staff Sgt. Wren J. Ebert, were taken into Lowestoft, Eng., aboard a rescue craft this morning. Officials ordered them not to make detailed statements.

A third survivor, Staff Sgt. Charles S. Allen, was rescued by the Royal Navy survey ship Scott.

A fourth survivor was picked up by a rescue craft shortly before noon.

IN LIFE RAFT

The master of the trawler Warren, which rescued Walsh and Ebert, said they were in a rubber life raft along with the dead man when found.

He said his ship had spotted flames Wednesday night, indicating other possible survivors might have been bobbing on the waves on Mae West life jackets.

The plane was attached to the 72nd Strategic Reconnaissance Squadron based at Sculthorpe, Eng., and formerly based at Fairfield-Suisun field near Sacramento, Calif.

R.C.A.F. Building Para Rescue Squad For Bush Country

EDMONTON (CP) — Canada soon will have another 15 to make 36 in all—men qualified in the arts of para-rescue, bush-and-wilderness survival, first aid and general air, search and rescue work.

The class of 14 R.C.A.F. members and Chief Petty Officer Hugh Clark of Dartmouth, N.S., are more than half through a five-month course here at Northwest Air Command.

The idea of air rescue personnel is said to be the brainchild of famed northern flier Capt. W. R. (Wop) May who started para-rescue instruction when he was in charge of wartime air training here. The R.C.A.F. picked it up in 1945.

Air rescue bases have been set up at Trenton, Ont.; Greenwood, N.S.; Sea Island, B.C.; Fort Nelson, B.C.; Whitehorse, Y.T., and Edmonton.

Before being qualified each student must make seven para-chute jumps in the open and three satisfactory jumps in bush country.

Say Forrestal Called Halt In Amerasia Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators were reported today to have received secret testimony that the late James V. Forrestal probably advised delaying arrests in the 1945 Amerasia case involving secret U.S. documents.

A source in close touch with the Senate inquiry into the case told a reporter the testimony came from James M. McInerney, assistant Attorney-General and chief of the Justice Department's criminal division. The source asked not to be named.

Forrestal was Navy Secretary at the time the case broke five years ago. Later he became Defense Secretary. He was killed last year in a plunge from an upper floor of the Naval Medical Centre at nearby Bethesda, Md.

McInerney's testimony was taken by the committee last month at a series of sessions behind closed doors.

RECALLS REQUEST

An informant said McInerney first told the committee he seemed to recall that Forrestal had asked the Justice Department to delay the arrest of the six persons accused.

The Baltimore Sun, in a story from its Washington bureau, said it had information that Forrestal's reported action may have stemmed from a desire to avoid friction with Russia about this country's trusteeship rights over islands seized from Japan.

Mother Helped Son Who Shot Hated Father

HOBOKEN, N.J. (UP) — The widow of a murdered New York exporter said today mother's love made her flee as a fugitive with her 16-year-old son while police hunted him in 13 states as the killer of his father.

Mrs. Anna Openshaw said she lived in fear of her own life the four days she was with her son, Stanley, a former mental patient, since her husband, Martin, 71, was shot to death early Saturday as he sat on a Bronx park bench in New York.

The youth was spotted dodging in and out doorways with his mother along the Hoboken waterfront, just across the Hudson River from Manhattan.

A policeman captured him after a brief struggle. A few minutes later, Mrs. Openshaw, 44, was arrested as a material witness.

"It was possible Stanley did it," she said. "He hated him so."

Mrs. Openshaw, estranged from her well-to-do husband for three years, said he and their son hated each other "bitterly" and admitted Stanley "threatened him on numerous occasions."

She said Stanley, who sullenly refused to answer all police queries also "threatened me with the revolver."

WOULD EXTEND U.S. DRAFT FOR 3 YEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-year extension of the peacetime Draft Act was recommended to the U.S. Senate today by its armed forces committee.

The present Draft Act is due to expire June 24.

The Senate bill would continue the President's power to order actual inductions of youths between 18 and 26 years if he found that necessary.

It also includes an amendment to require racial segregation in any of the armed services if this is requested in writing by any person drafted.

3 Known Dead, 4 Missing In Bomber Crash

Ships Rescue Four
Of B-29's Crew In North Sea Tragedy

LONDON (AP)—A United States B-29 bomber with a crew of 11 plunged into the North Sea in flames Wednesday night. After almost 24 hours of searching over the cold waters, authorities reported three known dead and four missing.

Four men were picked up alive from the craft, which crashed off the Norfolk coast of south-east England with one engine in flames. The search continued for the four missing men but there was growing belief none would be found alive.

An R.A.F. rescue launch reported late today recovery of a fifth survivor, but headquarters of the U.S. Air Force third division said later the man was dead. Another body—the third accounted for—was picked up by the British launch.

The air force said the plane, abandoned when one of its four engines caught fire, was in Britain on a training mission.

Floor Experts May Be In City By Midweek

Speed is the watchword of the city's arena committee these days, who hope to have experts to view the contentious arena floor by mid-week. Ald. Frank G. Mulliner, chairman said today.

He and Ald. William Pinfold, a member of the committee, will go to Vancouver Monday, to consult with authorities in the construction field over the choice of experts.

Whether the men will come from Vancouver or Seattle is not known. Ald. Mulliner said the opinion of independent authorities was sought to determine whether there would be any advantage in having the floor torn up and replaced.

Summer, Winter Hit Canada Same Day

Snow, Frost On Prairies Sweltering Heat In East

By CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary and Toronto represented the extremes in a topsy-turvy Canadian weather picture today as the east sweltered in a June heat wave while temperatures dropped below freezing in parts of the west.

The mercury fell to 27 during the night at Calgary—lowest in the country—while Malton airport, just north of Toronto, reported temperature at 88 Wednesday.

The sharp weather contrast was illustrated by a report from Climax, Sask., 275 miles west of Regina, of snow Wednesday; while in Toronto the suburbs were forced to put restrictions on use of water for lawns.

The storm that produced snow in parts of the prairies and sent temperature down to 32 in Prince Albert and 29 in Jasper was heading eastward.

Its centre 400 miles west of Lake Superior was moving toward Winnipeg, and cooler air over northern Ontario which was heading south is expected to retreat northward again.

That meant there was no immediate relief in sight for southern Ontario and the Ottawa-Montreal area. The mercury was expected to soar into the 80's in most parts of those districts again today.

May Challenge 12-Mile Limit Claim By Reds

STOCKHOLM (UP)—Sweden and Denmark are prepared to challenge Russia on the Soviet claim to sovereignty over 12 miles of territorial waters all along the Russian coast, informed sources said today.

The two Scandinavian nations will demand that Russia meet with their representatives to negotiate an agreement acceptable to both sides, these sources said.

If Russia refuses the two nations will haul her before the United Nations for a settlement of the international dispute, it was predicted.

The dispute centres around the Baltic Sea, where an American navy frigate with 10 men aboard was shot down two months ago.

In the past three months the Russians have seized 20 Scandinavian vessels, mostly fishing boats in the Baltic Sea, on charges that they were violating Soviet territorial waters.

General international agreement limits territorial waters to three miles from shore, but in the Baltic the accepted limit was four miles.

Russia made no announcement of her new claim to eight more miles of international waters until Wednesday. Then Russia declared officially that she considers all water 12 nautical miles (13.92 land miles) out from her coasts to be Soviet territory.

Offer Indians Franchise For Income Taxes

OTTAWA (CP)—The government proposed to extend the federal voting franchise to Indians living on reservations who are willing to give up their income tax exemption.

Walter Harris, Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, gave notice today that he will move a motion to this effect before the Commons election committee. He expressed the hope the proposal would come before the Commons at this session.

His motion would have the effect of enfranchising those Indians, not war veterans, who waive tax exemption on income they earn on the reservation.

The minister emphasized the waiver would be entirely voluntary.

At present, Indian war veterans and their wives may vote, regardless of whether they live on reservations. Others may vote if they do not live on reserves.

Indians living on reservations now are taxed on income earned off the reserve. The waiver would apply only to the additional income they earn on the reserve.

Police say Mary McIntyre, 25-year-old Vancouver advertising career girl brutally slugged Sunday, probably knows her assailant.

Miss McIntyre still was unconscious but reported improved. Police Inspector Frank Ahern said he would question the young woman as soon as she regains consciousness.

Sees Need For New Arena Floor Unless Repairs Made

B.C. SHINGLES GIVEN BOOST

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia shingles, despite an Opposition member's views on their quality, are going to be used on the roof of the home for Canadian Prime Ministers.

Acting Prime Minister Howe said today in the Commons he had been told the contractor planned to use B.C. shingles on the former mansion now being renovated.

"British Columbia shingles," said C. W. Hodgson (P.C., Victoria, Ont.), are about the poorest thing you can put on a roof."

Canada Urged To Help Rearm W. Germany

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative spokesman proposed today that Canada take the lead in urging the rearming of Western Germany.

Lt. Col. Douglass Harkness (P.C., Calgary East), a wartime artilleryman, launched a Commons debate with the contention that without the use of German manpower the chances of holding most of Western Europe against any Russian onslaught would be negligible.

He argued, too, that the Atlantic Pact policy of defending Europe indicates Canada's concept of defence must be "materially altered" to provide relatively large forces that could be thrown into action abroad at any moment.

This, Col. Harkness contended, gets away from present concept of small standing forces and means that Canada must face up to much larger defence costs and to greater stress on air-power if the pact strategy is to be implemented.

A Washington AP dispatch today reported U.S. State Department officials were convinced that any effort now to rearm Western Germany would weaken rather than strengthen the defences of the West against Russia.

To this conviction was mainly attributed State Secretary Dean Acheson's firm reassertion Wednesday of U.S. policy that Germany must be kept disarmed, despite official word that from the military point of view its armament in the West would be a good thing.

Mrs. O'Regan Named Liberal Women's Head

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. W. Y. O'Regan of Ottawa today was elected president of the National Federation of Liberal Women. She succeeds Mrs. Nancy Hodges of Victoria, who has held the position for the last three years. Mrs. O'Regan was vice-president last year.

Consulting Engineer Says Pipes Will Rust Unless Cracks Fixed

Need for construction of a new floor at the Memorial Arena "in a few years" is seen by Charles T. Hamilton, consulting engineer, unless cracks in the present floor are repaired.

Mr. Hamilton told the Victoria Times today:

"There are certain cracks in the concrete floor. If they are not repaired water will seep into them until it reaches the refrigeration pipes. The pipes then will rust. Formation of rust causes expansion, and the concrete will be broken down. The pipes will be further rusted until they have to be replaced."

Replacing of the pipes would mean, of course, construction of a new floor which Mr. Hamilton said the taxpayers of Victoria would have to finance if the present floor is accepted from the contractors (Luney Brothers and Hamilton).

The engineer said this was the reason he had refused to accept the floor. The taxpayers had paid already for a good floor and he insisted the contractors must put right the faults now showing.

Referring to the widely-publicized May 30 letter of the Victoria Building Industries' Exchange in which local contractors sought what amounted to a public enquiry on arena matters, Mr. Hamilton said:

"I am heartily in accord with their suggestion that a full enquiry be held of all matters relating to the construction of the arena from the commencement, provided the inquiry is held by a competent and wholly unbiased committee."

On a statement in the Exchange letter that the arena floor "is said to have been several inches out of level due to frost," the consulting engineer claimed the greatest variation on the floor level was slightly over one and a half inches.

"I took levels of the floor last Tuesday," he said. And F. Aldous, B.C.L.S., also took levels on the floor. That was on May 11, and the greatest variation he reported was slightly over one and seven-sixteenths inches.

'PROPAGANDA'

He contends there was no reason for the assumption frost action may affect the floor to the extent that it will have to be removed.

"The doubt expressed (in the Exchange letter) 'whether this floor can be put right without it being torn out completely' is just propaganda for the purpose of relieving the present contractors from fulfilling the terms of their agreement," Mr. Hamilton said.

The engineer said he expected to be in Victoria next Tuesday to meet the City Council's arena committee and inspect changes in the engine room at the arena.

He said the changes amounted to a rearranging of pumping equipment, "which was not put in properly in the first place."

Correction of the work had been delayed by lack of required fittings.

Mr. Hamilton said the change would make for smoother operation in freezing and heating.

Two Girls Perish

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Two young girls were burned to death today in a fire that destroyed their home in adjacent St. Catharines Township. Three other persons were taken to hospital with severe burns.

Dead are Arline Waugh, 16, and her sister, Fanny, 5.

MARITAL FREEDOM MAY BE COSTLY

Eden Wins Divorce, Faces Loss Of Chance As British Premier

LONDON (AP)—Former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden won a divorce decree today by testifying that his attractive brunette wife deserted him in 1947 to live in the United States. Eden, whose political ambitions as deputy Conservative leader may be jeopardized by divorce in strait-laced Britain, was granted a decree nisi in a two-minute hearing before Justice Francis Hodson.

The dapper, greying Eden—still handsome at 53—told the court in a firm voice that his wife insisted on visiting the United States in 1946, that he accompanied her there and that she then refused to return to her native Britain.

Mrs. Eden, 45, who has spent most of her time since 1945 in the U.S. and Bermuda, was not represented at the hearing. She did not contest the action.

A United Press report from New York quoted Mrs. Eden as saying "so what" today when told her husband had been granted a divorce.

Mrs. Eden said she did not think the divorce would harm her husband's long governmental career.

"I hope not anyway," she said. "It's my fault, you know. After all he got the divorce."

A decree nisi becomes absolute in six weeks under British divorce law, unless there is an objection raised in court.

Eden was the only witness at the hearing. Friends of the deputy Conservative leader had speculated he would avoid divorce because of the probable effect on his political career. As the recognized deputy to Winston Churchill, Eden was in line for eventual leadership of the Conservative Party—and the post of Prime Minister when and if the Tories regain power.

Some observers predicted his five-minute appearance in divorce court today virtually ended any chances he might have had of ever becoming Prime Minister.

They recalled that the stamp of divorce, regardless of cause, was practically an unsurmountable barrier to leadership in the British government.

Other observers said, however, that Eden's stature in Conservative politics might break that unwritten law of British political and social life.

Storm Warnings Raise St. Frances Flood Danger

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—The fight against rising Rainy Lake in this northwestern Ontario centre heightened today as storm warnings were issued for the area.

High water driven by strong east winds crumbled four feet off the shoreline and damaged installations have been flooded. The lake at Fort Frances was still about three inches below the all-time high of 1916, but reports from uplake areas indicated it was over the mark there.

The J. A. Mathieu sawmill, four miles northwest of here, closed earlier because of flooding, was reopened today after pumping equipment worked all night.

Canadian National Railways' spokesmen said the line is operating "with difficulty" over many flooded stretches of track. Bridges were weighted down with rails as water crept up on the freights.

Twenty-five miles east of Bear's Pass wrecking crews still were working to clear the remains of 11 freight cars knocked off the line by a wash-out Tuesday night.

Seaway, Power Project Seems Out This Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to authorize the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project appears stymied for this session of Congress.

Identical seaway bills were introduced in the Senate and House of Representatives but only the latter, through its public works committee, has held a hearing on the proposal this year.

The committee heard only testimony favorable to the $800,000,000 joint Canadian-United States project. Opponents did not choose to testify as it was understood the measure would not be acted upon at this session.

A Senate sub-committee was named last year to consider the bill but it has yet to hold a hearing. None will be held by the Senate until next year at the earliest.

The House committee has indicated it will take no action until the Senate leads the way.

The bills would authorize, but not appropriate, money for the seaway-power project.

Canada and the United States would equally share the power and contribute equally to the construction costs.

a 1,500-foot stretch of city property, where the lake threatened to overflow. Already several cottages and some fishing installations have been flooded.

The lake at Fort Frances was still about three inches below the all-time high of 1916, but reports from uplake areas indicated it was over the mark there.

The J. A. Mathieu sawmill, four miles northwest of here, closed earlier because of flooding, was reopened today after pumping equipment worked all night.

Canadian National Railways' spokesmen said the line is operating "with difficulty" over many flooded stretches of track. Bridges were weighted down with rails as water crept up on the freights.

Twenty-five miles east of Bear's Pass wrecking crews still were working to clear the remains of 11 freight cars knocked off the line by a wash-out Tuesday night.

Meat Prices Still Go Up In U.S. Led By Beef

CHICAGO (UP)—Meat prices are skyrocketing, led by the rising price of beef, a United Press survey in 19 cities of the U.S. showed today.

The higher prices in meat—near record levels in some cities—are part of a general pattern in which housewives are paying more for almost all types of foods.

The Dun and Bradstreet market report showed wholesale food prices at their highest level since Jan. 18, 1949. The index rose six cents during the past week to a level of $6. A year ago it stood at 5.73 and it was $6.02 on Jan. 18, 1949.

Flour, oats, ham, lard, cheese, coffee, cocoa, eggs, potatoes, raisins and lamb were listed as selling for higher prices. But beef and hogs were among foods listed as declining somewhat during the past week.

The agriculture department warned, meanwhile, that prices of most meats would remain high throughout the summer. The United Press survey showed the average price of meat had increased substantially since a year ago, with the biggest rise shown in the last month. Beef, particularly the better cuts, increased the most. Lamb and pork rose only slightly and declined in some cities.

Pennies By Thousands

Canadian Pension System Still Needs Improvement

Although Canada has one of the best pension systems in the world, according to Richard Hale, chief pensions officer for the Canadian Legion, Dominion Command, he is "not entirely satisfied yet."

Mr. Hale spoke to ex-servicemen at the Naval Veterans' Branch of the Legion Wednesday night. Today he is working on individual cases of pension problems.

It is his job to deal with all veterans' legislation, prepare briefs and appear before all Parliamentary committees and commissions discussing pensions and other benefits and problems concerning the veteran.

SERVICE CONSCIOUS
Because British Columbia has so many pensioned veterans, it is "very service conscious," Mr. Hale said. He felt that one of the chief problems before the Legion today is the care of orphans of veterans. Scholarships and other funds have been established to aid this problem, he said.

In Mr. Hale's party are Capt.

WHAT'S 'CHILTERN HUNDREDS'?

18th Century Ruling Of British Parliament

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON
It would seem that the dust of ancient legalities and parliamentary acts would dull the most sparkling wit, but "The Chiltern Hundreds," a J. Arthur Rank production, currently exhibited at the Dominion Theatre, proves the reverse to be true.

Behind the brilliantly-acted modern story, with its cascades of laughter and flashing repartee, lurk the bare bones of an 18th century ruling of the British Parliament. This ruling obligated local British gentry to represent their constituencies in the House, and, furthermore, once they had been duly chosen, they could not resign, except in cases of incurable illness.

About the year 1740, Sir W. W. Wynn, M.P., came into his inheritance through the unexpected death of his father. This inheritance was a Crown grant which he was equally obligated to uphold as to retain his seat in Parliament. A precedent was created and he was allowed to depart in pursuance of his heritage.

This incident, subjected to the parliamentarians as an "out" for

NEW B.C. SOCIETY TO PRESS FOR REFORM OF DIVORCE LAWS

A new British Columbia society, incorporated at the Legislative Buildings this week, will press for reform of divorce laws.

Under the present law the only grounds for divorce, is adultery.

Among the additional grounds for divorce which the society will seek are: Desertion without cause for a period of three years, cruelty by a spouse, incurable insanity after a period of continuous care and treatment for at least five years, habitual commission of criminal acts and reasonable grounds for supposing a spouse is dead.

The society will also ask for free legal service for those unable to afford legal costs and power for judges to forbid or limit newspaper reports of divorce cases.

INVEST IN CANADA ASSOCIATION TOLD

Dealers Warned Wide-Awake Foreigners Will Take Advantage If They Don't

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (BUP)—Canadians were warned today that if they don't take advantage of sound investments in the Dominion's development they may lose out to wide-awake foreigners.

J. U. Boyer, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, told a Canadian Investment Dealers' Convention that Canada's banks and investment dealers should join in making the nation's citizens aware of expanding opportunities.

"A great deal of venture capital is going to be needed now," he said. "More is going to be needed for oil developments, for mining developments and for the great capital programs already indicated this year for the expansion of industry, utilities and construction."

"If the Canadian does not share in the benefit by his country's development, the opportunities which offer gain will assuredly not be overlooked by wide-awake investors elsewhere."

Boyer said investment dealers faced the problem of offering proposals in a manner which would prompt Canadians to invest their money with the same degree of certainty they know when depositing funds in banks.

REMOVE SECRECY
Harvey R. Doane, president of the Dominion Chartered Accountants' Association, said accountants and investment dealers should try to persuade big business to remove secrecy from sales volume and allied statistics.

Another contribution large corporations could make in the fight against socialism and government-controlled business was educating people to the advantages of our economic system," Doane said.

Past president John T. Hackett of the Canadian Bar Association said investment dealers should resist "with all their talent and energy" a developing tendency toward state control. As a result of the war, he said, "some of the less attractive features of authoritarianism" existed in Canada.

MUNICIPALITIES WARNED
Henry E. Langford, president of Dominion Mortgage and Investment Association, warned of trends in municipal finance where "real danger" awaited if they continued. Municipal governments were not holding expenditures down and were shifting their financial burdens to provincial and federal authorities. This transfer of responsibility would not provide a solution, he said.

Rather, it had to be "accompanied by a willingness and determination on the part of municipal bodies" to clamp down on spending, Langford said.

Committeemen Say Somebody May Be On Carpet

By GEORGE E. REEDY JR.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Members of the Congressional atomic committee said today they are deeply disturbed by public discussions of atomic weapons and may call somebody on the carpet for an explanation.

The legislators said they are studying a number of recent statements on new atomic weapons—some official and some which appear to be officially "inspired"—and may ask for a full committee investigation.

"Frankly, we are completely bewildered by some of the recent developments," one senator said. "Either someone is over-exercising his imagination or there has been some loose talking."

"Either way, we would like to know the score."

This legislator said he has not raised the question formally at a committee session, but he said it is disturbing to all his colleagues and may be brought into the open soon.

Members of the joint committee who would discuss the situation would not discuss the specific reports which have disturbed them. But one said they include numerous stories—denied by defence officials—that this country has produced:

1. "Baby" atomic bombs that could be carried by light fighter planes.
2. Atomic artillery shells and guided missiles with atomic warheads.

This committee member said these were only two of the disturbing reports; that there are others which he would not specify.

"I only know that if they are true, they are facts which are unknown to the committee," he said. "Under the law, we are supposed to be kept informed of all atomic developments."

"Either someone is withholding information from us and distributing it to the public or someone is trying to pump up some false hopes."

"The first would be a security breach and the second a disservice to the nation."

Irwin Honored At Presentation

G. M. Irwin, who retired last week from his post of water commissioner after 22 years in the city service, was honored Wednesday afternoon at City Hall.

Mayor Percy George presented him with a radio and clock, on behalf of aldermen and members of the civic staff.

Mayor George said Mr. Irwin's "sincerity and singleness of purpose" had impressed him when he first took a seat on council. For a time Mr. Irwin served in the dual capacity of water commissioner and city engineer.

Two Former Vancouver Island Men Named In King's Birthday List

Two men brought up on Vancouver Island were included in the King's Birthday honor list announced today.

A Canadian Press dispatch named Flt. Lt. Peter Borden St. Louis, the R.C.A.F. pilot who rescued stranded British scientists from Stonington Island in the Antarctic last January, and Air Marshal Philip Clermont Livingston, director-general of medical services for the R.A.F. and an honorary surgeon to the King.

Flt. Lt. St. Louis, who attended Oak Bay High School before joining the air force during the war, was made an ordinary member of the military division of the Order of the British Empire.

Air Marshal Livingston lived on Vancouver Island till he went to Britain at the age of 16. He was made a Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire.

Let Fire Hall Contract, $14,800

Ald. Frank Mullinen, chairman of the fire wardens' committee, announced Wednesday contract for construction of the new James Bay Fire Hall has been awarded to T. Lambie and Son for $14,800.

It was the lowest tender but still higher than anticipated, Ald. Mullinen said. This was the second call for tenders since on the first call, the lowest was in excess of $15,000, the sum estimated for the complete building in the city's 1950 budget.

Those named included political figures, actors, musicians, factory workers, a motorcycle racer and Britain's ace steeplejack who was awarded the Order of the British Empire.

REMOVED HELMET
Sidney Larkins, the steeplejack, was called on last November to remove a policeman's helmet that had been hung on top of the 310-foot spire of the House of Commons. Police still are looking for the culprit who risked their lives to carry out the practical joke.

Knowing Londoners attributed the prank to medical students who scaled the spire at night during one of London's worst fogs.

Larkins' decoration, however, was an award for his general competence as an industrial worker during a venturesome career, not for the single exploit of removing the bobby's helmet.

C.S.U. Likely To Be Expelled From World Federation

LONDON (Reuter) — Three Communist-led trade unions, including the Canadian Seamen's Union, whose fight with Canadian ship-owners and rival unions led to the London docks strike last summer, will be proposed for final expulsion from the International Transport Workers' Federation at its Congress in Stuttgart, July 21-29.

The federation's executive has already broken off relations with C.S.U., the New Zealand Waterside Workers' Union, and the Finnish Transport Workers' Union.

Last November the federation set up a special committee to combat "Communist interference."

Red Move In Germany May Violate Big Four Agreement

BERLIN (AP) — Russia today named civilians to replace four military rulers in east Germany in a move apparently designed to bolster the prestige of the Communist East German State.

The changes accelerated the switch from military to civilian control in the Russian zone and were accompanied by indications that new responsibilities were being delegated to the area's Communist-controlled German government.

Allied observers believed, however, the changes did not mean that Moscow was loosening its grip on east Germany but rather was pulling the Kremlin-created state closer toward early partnership as a full-fledged satellite in the Soviet bloc.

LONDON (AP) — A Foreign Office spokesman said today appointment of a civilian to replace the Soviet military commander in Berlin seems inconsistent with four-power agreements.

He recalled that the Big Four Foreign Ministers agreed last year to try to set up again as a functioning organization the four-power military Kommandatura which ran Berlin affairs.

Woman Prefers Prison To Taxes

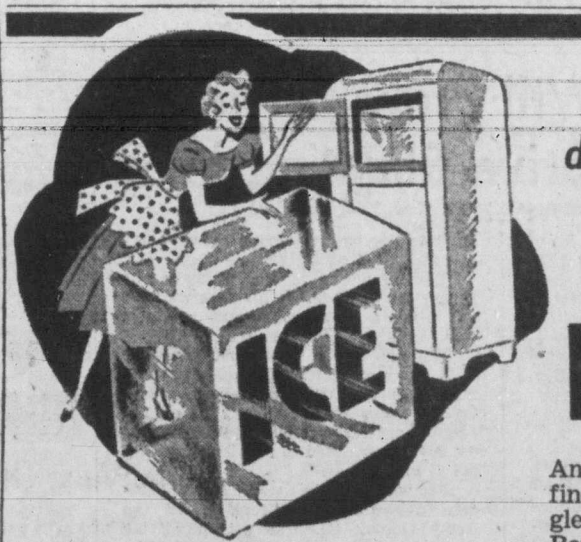

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — An aroused Brampton housewife told the town council she would go to jail sooner than pay taxes on her home.

Mrs. Annie Potter complained that her tax bill of $218.06 was $45 higher than last year.

"You can put me in jail," she said, "I am not paying $20 a month taxes to live in this town. I would hate myself if I did."

She said her house was not in a good residential section, and that there was a dump across from it. She told council she had appealed unsuccessfully to the court of revision about her taxes.

Council decided to consider the complaint at a finance committee meeting.

Say Forrestal Called Halt In Amerasia Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators were reported today to have received secret testimony that the late James V. Forrestal probably advised delaying arrests in the 1945 Amerasia case involving secret U.S. documents.

A source in close touch with the Senate inquiry into the case told a reporter the testimony came from James M. McInerney, assistant Attorney-General and chief of the Justice Department's criminal division. The source asked not to be named.

Forrestal was Navy Secretary at the time the case broke five years ago. Later he became Defense Secretary. He was killed last year in a plane crash from an upper floor of the Naval Medical Centre at nearby Bethesda, Md.

McInerney's testimony was taken by the committee last month at a series of sessions behind closed doors.

RECALLS REQUEST

An informant said McInerney first told the committee he seemed to recall that Forrestal had asked the Justice Department to delay the arrest of the six persons accused.

The Baltimore Star, in a story from its Washington bureau, said it had information that Forrestal's reported action may have stemmed from a desire to avoid friction with Russia about this country's trusteeship rights over islands seized from Japan.

Times' Astor Heads Empire Press Union

QUEBEC CITY (BUP) — Col. J. J. Astor of the London Times today was re-elected president of the Empire Press Union at the seventh annual imperial press conference in Quebec city.

Senator W. Rubert Davies of the Kingston, Ontario, Whig-Standard was name vice-president.

Col. Astor was elected on motion by Senator Davies, chairman of the union's Canadian section. Seconder was Maj.-Gen. Lord Burnham of the London Daily Telegraph.

Sir Keith Murdoch of the Melbourne, Australia Herald, and Col. Astor proposed Senator Davies' election.

The conference's 61 delegates, meeting to consider methods of ensuring freedom of the press, earlier named committees to operate throughout the session which ends June 27 at Muskoka, Ont.

Moscow Gets Fine New Cafe With Floor Show, Special Southern Dishes

By TOM WHITNEY

MOSCOW (CP) — The finest new restaurant to be opened in Moscow since the end of the war started business a few days ago. It is called "The Ararat" and is operated by the government of the Armenian republic of the U.S.S.R.

The opening of this new restaurant began a heated competition in the field of middle-eastern foods. Moscow already has a large number of restaurants which specialize in Georgian, Armenian, Azerbaizhan and central Asian dishes.

They include several outstanding eating places opened in the last year, such as the "Uzbekistan" and "The Baku."

However, the outstanding place where Muscovites could get the best "Shashlyk" (broiled spiced lamb), "plaf" (a dish of lamb and rice) and the like has always been the Georgian restaurant, "The Aragvi."

That restaurant, which derives its name from a famous flowing river of Soviet Georgia, occupies a fine establishment just off Moscow's main stem—Gorky Street.

GEORGIAN ORCHESTRA

"The Aragvi" has a fine Georgian orchestra and several times each evening presents a Caucasian male dancer in the traditional Caucasian uniform in a dagger dance.

Now, however, it seems "The Aragvi" is going to have to share its laurels with "The Ararat."

The Armenian republic has made strenuous efforts to see that its restaurant in Moscow will be in no way inferior to "The Aragvi" in the service of Armenian and middle-eastern foods and wines.

The best Armenian cook in Erevan has been engaged, according to report, to take charge of the kitchen of "The Ararat," and the cream of Armenia's select wines and its famed high-quality cognac were brought in to stock the wine cellars of the establishment.

On the other hand, "The Aragvi" is prepared to meet the new situation. It is improving its already excellent cuisine and service and is counting on the loyalty of its old and favored customers.

Pay Cheques Late, Linemen Quit Job

WINNIPEG (BUP) — Nearly 200 Manitoba telephone system linemen remained off their jobs today in a walkout protesting delays in receiving their pay cheques.

The linemen walked out Wednesday in an unsanctioned wildcat strike, but were to return to work this morning.

Company officials said, however, the men had not returned this morning as expected.

The men are members of the A.F.L. Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The union did not authorize the walkout, which affected only Winnipeg workers.

Amalgamation Or Splinters?

ALTHOUGH SUCCESSIVE VICTORIA City Councils and a large section of the public in the metropolitan area have taken a lively interest in the subject of a merger of the four political entities which make up Greater Victoria, the prospect of a workable scheme for amalgamation emerging from all the intensive consideration of the matter seems as remote as ever. Admittedly, in the administration of the school system, and in respect of water supply, sanitation has been achieved, and there is a working understanding as far as health services and policing are concerned.

Outside of these arrangements, however, the major problem stands about where it was when the late Mayor McEwen, just prior to the outbreak of the Second World War, spiritedly revived the ancient issue at a meeting of the Victoria and Saanich Beaches and Parks committee. As a result of the emphasis which His Worship brought to bear on the salient points involved at that time considerable public enthusiasm became manifest. With all the pressures of the war years, amalgamation as an instrument of civic policy quite properly ceased to be of immediate concern. Soon after he assumed the office of Chief Magistrate, however, Mayor George—along with most of his aldermanic colleagues—added his blessing to the efforts of the pioneers in the cause. Indeed, fact-finding bodies, a species of educational discussions, full-dress debates and appeals to the electors to consider the benefits that would accrue if one civic unit could supplant the existing four—all these persuasive devices have been urged.

If It Comes To A Choice

A SHARP REMINDER THAT THE best defence against the destruction of modern warfare is to avoid having a war has come from London in the form of a pamphlet by the British Association of Scientific Workers. The document declares that economic reasons, quite apart from technical problems, rule out the establishment of any adequate defence in Britain against atomic attack. "The cost of the necessary passive defence measures, dispersal, underground factories, shelters, etc., is widely outside the economic possibilities of this economically hard-pressed country," one scientist says. Contributors reached the conclusion that "the only way out of this impasse is to ensure that the Third World War does not in fact take place."

Uppermost in their minds, of course, was the fact that the United Kingdom is in a much more exposed position than is the United States, Canada or Russia. The size of the island limits dispersal measures that could better be undertaken by countries embracing whole continents. And there can be little doubt that Britain

Instead of treading the path toward the amalgamation goal, moreover, we now are witnessing the spectacle of a major suburban municipality splintering itself—one part sounding out the electors on a policy of "going it alone," and two other areas toying with the idea of chopping off important pieces of the district and nailing them to the Municipality of Oak Bay. What the people of Saanich do in what they conceive to be in their own best interests is, of course, their affair entirely. And the citizens of Victoria proper will wish them well. Regardless of the foregoing, and still mindful of some of the traditional objections to the major municipality's desire, we are convinced that the day will come when a population of a little more than 100,000—considerably less than one-third of Vancouver—will find it very difficult to justify, economically, the luxury of four civic governments.

Incidentally, all reference books in Canada and the United States dealing with populations are still listing the capital city of British Columbia as a city of some 60,000, while the three municipalities are overlooked altogether. Since potential investors and industrialists often are influenced in their plans by population figures, the low and unrepresentative figure mentioned cannot be considered helpful in Greater Victoria's bid for expansion. And we note that the latest issue of "Hammond's Complete World Atlas"—this month's premium of a well-known international book club—gives Victoria and suburbs, without mentioning the latter by name, 75,218. The inference is obvious.

would immediately be in the firing line of any global conflict that broke out between East and West, and to a much more destructive extent than she was when under attack from the Luftwaffe. British safety undoubtedly depends to a large extent on efforts to keep the world on an even keel and avoid resort to armed force. The same is true of any country on the globe, but the island bastion of the democracies holds a special place in that regard.

The people who guard that bastion, however, will not overlook the fact that peace without freedom would be no true peace. When they stood almost alone against Hitler's might, they knew that one word of surrender—would bring them relief from bombing and destruction. But that word was never spoken, and no threat of even worse dangers could drive them to capitulation in the face of any other totalitarian foe. Britain will be for peace as long as peace is possible. But if a choice must be made, she will, as throughout her long history, be for the survival of free men.

The Council Acts For The People

TAXPAYERS OF VICTORIA WILL not be pleased with the attitude taken by the Victoria Building Industries Exchange relative to City Council treatment of tenders for a new fire hall in James Bay. The explanation by the Exchange that the remarks were not made in "a spirit of censure or criticism" scarcely lessens their offensive character. The average citizen is in a position to determine for himself whether or not the action of the council was ethical or unethical.

The explanation of council procedure is simple enough. The mayor and aldermen approved a plan to build the fire hall. They called for tenders and opened them in public as is the custom. The lowest of the bids was beyond the city's budget. Exercising its obvious prerogative, the council rejected all of them. At that point, the city had before it two alternatives. It could have abandoned the idea of building a fire hall on the specifications it set down—and we presume those specifications were no more ambitious than necessary—or it could call for new tenders, hoping to receive a bid that would afford to accept. The council chose the latter course. It set no precedent in doing so. Similar action has been taken on previous occasions.

It may be unfortunate that publication of bids is considered detrimental by contractors. That, however, is unavoidable if tenders are opened in public. What, we wonder, would be the reaction if such business were done behind closed doors? It must be remembered that the council is spending public money, taxpayers' money, and that it wants a fire hall for public protection. The attempt by the Victoria Building Industries Exchange to instruct the council in professional ethics seems poorly conceived under the circumstances.

If something isn't done to reduce highway slaughter, they soon will be regarding death in an auto accident as dying from natural causes.

'Cold War' Will Prove Cheaper Than Alternative Shooting War

By BRUCE BLOSSAT From New York

CAN we afford the cold war? A lot of people say we can't, that the Marshall Plan, heavy defence outlays, help to the Far East and Point Four aid to backward lands are just too much to bear.

Paul Hoffman, head of the Economic Cooperation Administration, has a different answer. He says we can't afford NOT to fight the cold war.

PLAIN ISSUE

In a recent Washington speech packed with solid sense, Hoffman laid the issue out plainly. As they emerge from his comment, the choices before us are these: to knuckle under to Russia, to reach a fair agreement with her, to continue the cold war or to undertake a shooting war.

Of the first prospect, Hoffman probably voices the general U.S. view when he says Russia has a "perfectly stinking" system that men won't live under, if they can somehow escape it.

And Hoffman seems to share the widespread official pessimism in America over chances of sound agreement with the Kremlin. He stresses that Russia decided to fight the cold war even while World War II still raged and she was our comrade in arms. He sees Soviet leaders thoroughly committed to the idea that communism and capitalism must battle until one or the other goes down.

Hoffman is at his most forceful in pointing out that continuing the cold war is preferable by far to the one remaining alternative—shooting war. "Shooting war is the ultimate stupidity," he declares. "This time we have got to win a victory with these new cold war techniques. And we will win it."

The cold war is expensive, yes. The four-year cost of the Marshall Plan will hit close to $15,000,000,000. Defence outlays for ourselves and our allies are running around $13,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000 a year. Add to this the mounting aid to other lands.

But what of a hot war's cost? Hoffman quotes former Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray as estimating the final cost of World War II—when the last pension is paid—at one trillion, three hundred billion dollars. Another war almost inevitably would cost much more.

Hoffman believes we could extend the Marshall Plan to Asia and perhaps Africa for a cost that would come to less in a year than a hot war would cost in a week.

SENSIBLE REPLY

"What are people talking about when they say we can't afford this $15,000,000,000, this $20,000,000,000?" he asks.

The economy-minded will be hard put to make sensible reply. For the fact is that, grim as it is, the cold war is the most cheerful prospect we can contemplate until Russian communism somehow crumbles under the weight of a determined free world.

Razor's Edge

By JOSEPH ALSOP From Paris

THE Partisans of Peace is a Communist-front organization which the hard-working Cominform has recently caused to spring into being all over Europe. Under the leadership of Professor Joliot-Curie, they have been circulating a petition embodying the resolutions of the Cominform-organized Stockholm peace rally. They claim 20,000,000 signatures, at the moment, for this demand for the "absolute suppression of atomic weapons."

THE French Communist press helps on the drive for the petition with huge advertisements carrying such headlines as "Paris, London, New York and Moscow Transformed Into Smoke Clouds From 35,000 Feet." Meanwhile, certain well-known, anti-Communist French intellectuals, like Beuve-Mery, the editor of Le Monde and Gilson, the Catholic philosopher, are agitating for a European "neutrality," which seems to mean nothing much more than disarmament.

All this is happening, moreover, at a time when the French Communist Party is losing political strength in the formal democratic sense. Even the Communist trades unions have suffered serious decline of membership. The Communist Party proper is indeed being rather nakedly transformed into a simple paramilitary instrument of Soviet world power.

THIS puzzling Communist propaganda success, at a moment of Communist political decline, deserves careful study in the United States. On balance, at the moment, there does not seem to be anything solid behind all the sound and fury. But this does not mean that there will be nothing solid in the future, if American policy does not walk along a nicely calculated razor's edge.

One danger is that in the division of effort to build a serious defence of the western world, we shall ask the French to contribute too heavily. The political and economic recovery of France, already noted in this space, now at last makes it possible for France to act as a full partner in the Atlantic community. But this recovery is as yet incomplete. A patient just finishing a long and terrible illness cannot do cross-country runs.

HENCE the French contribution, while it should represent a materially increased investment of men and resources, must also be limited for the time being. The French recovery must not be checked. Here, as in Britain, we are in the position of a man who has made one investment—the Marshall Plan—with great success, and is therefore sorely tempted to milk all funds from the newly established company in order to start another concern—the Atlantic defence program—for which capital is also needed. If we are sensible we shall recognize the folly of this procedure. In the period just ahead, the United States will therefore have to provide between two-thirds and three-quarters of the additional defence funds that are needed.

WE MAY lack this kind of foresight, and entangle France in defence outlays that will set back French recovery. The political consequences here will then be extremely grave. With a return of postwar neurosis, the French people may even refuse to make any effort whatever to defend themselves. On the other hand—and this is why the razor's edge is so narrow—the political consequences here will certainly be still more appalling if a solid western defence is not built within a reasonable time.

One has only to turn to the French Communist press to see what the danger is. The immediate purpose of the "peace" propaganda is obviously to impede the rearmament of the Atlantic community. The less obvious but far more important long-range purpose is to frighten people into fits, and thus prepare them for appeasement and submission.

SCARE stories about the British government having already decided to evacuate 6,000,000 children from the cities, about the destruction of harvests with radioactive elements and about 36,000,000 deaths resulting from a single bombing raid, are the warp and wool of the Communist "peace" propaganda.

The emphasis on atomic warfare, formerly pooh-poohed, is immensely significant. For of course the Soviets now have an atom bomb, too, and are rapidly building bomb stocks and strategic bombers. If Europe still has no air defence when Soviet war preparations are complete, the scare stories will thus have deadly effects.

THEN the neutrality theorists like Gilson and Beuve-Mery will acquire the great followings they do not now have. Then the signature on "peace" petitions will be real instead of forged. Then France might well leave the Atlantic community, sign a "non-aggression" pact with Moscow, and surrender to avoid attack. Such is the critical import of the decisions that must now be taken in Washington about the defence problem.

A GENEROUS PEOPLE

Winnipeg Free Press

In its magnificent gift of $250,000 to help in Red Cross flood relief in Manitoba, the American Red Cross has provided another convincing demonstration of the inherent generosity of the people of that country.

A further example of this generosity is the gift of $50,000 from the Indianapolis headquarters of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (A.F.L.) for flood relief in Manitoba. It is the first time the union has ever sent a donation out of the United States.

The hearts of the people in the United States are quickly touched by distress.

Get Him Out—And Keep Him Out, Sam

Russian Escapees Foresee War

By TANYA MATTHEWS, Author of "Russian Child and Russian Wife"

(Third in a series of four.)

AS I showed in my first article, the motives that prompted thousands of Soviet escapees to risk their lives to find freedom in the Western zones of Germany were varied and individual ones. Few escapees, if any, crossed the border in order to build up a free atmosphere, the groundwork of a new system which could replace the present Stalinist regime.

LITTLE GUIDANCE

Although Allied officials are inclined to discount the peril of "planets" among the escapees, very little is done in the Western zones to help them to think constructively about Russia's future. With the exception of a few whom the BBC put on the air to tell in their own language and to their own people the story of their escape and their impressions of the West, the fruits of their reflections are not used in Western propaganda to the U.S.S.R.

Nevertheless, the escapees have organized their own channels through which propaganda, by leaflet and by word of mouth, is smuggled into Eastern Germany. This activity receives neither financial nor moral support from the Western Allies. Many escapees have thought deeply about the fate of the Russia they may never see again. One of them is Vladimir, the engineer whose adventures I described in my first article. He has written a novel on the lines suggested by the dream of the Grand Inquisitor in Dostoevsky's "Brothers Karamazov."

In this Marx rises from the dead and appears in Moscow. All the people recognize him and hail him, but Stalin leaves the Kremlin to have him arrested and arraigned as "an enemy of the people."

"The strength of Stalin's regime," Vladimir said, "is that an organized resistance against it is impossible, since under the omnipresent secret police terror each and every Soviet citizen is isolated from his fellow-beings by mistrust."

That sort of fatalistic pessimism is almost universal among the escapees. They all agree that although the Soviet regime is detested by almost all its subjects except the high level administrators who form its steel frame, there is no hope of overturning it from within. When Stalin disappears, his absolutism will continue under a new idol. They compare the Stalinist regime to a Batavskaya Slezka (Rupert's drop), the drop of molten glass dropped into cold water, whose pear-shaped form, once cooled, can be hammered indefinitely without breaking it, unless it is hit on the tip, when it shatters into atoms under the released stress of internal tensions. Which amounts to saying—smash the Kremlin and the whole of Russia will be free.

Besides their hatred of Stalinism, there is one sentiment common to all the escapees—profound love of their country. "There would be no D.P. problem if Russia were liberated," one of them told me. "We'd walk home on our flat feet." And there is one fear common to them: the fear that in the armed conflict which they assume to be the inescapable precondition of that freedom, the Western Allies may repeat the mistake of the Nazis and make war not just on the Russian regime but on the Russian people. For they are certain that war between the Soviet Union and the West is inevitable. And they are sure that the longer the outbreak of this war is delayed the higher will be the price that the Western Allies will have to pay for it.

But although the escapees may feel that the Russians cannot by themselves determine Russia's future, they have their own ideas as to what they would like that future to be. There are few monarchists among them; these few are largely to be found among the older White Russian emigrants. There is an Ukrainian nationalist movement, not at all popular among the Russians. The political creed of the majority of the Russian escapees can be summed up as an indignant repudiation of the Western belief that Russia has no use for democracy and a demand that in any new regime that may be devised by a constituent assembly the MVD and the concentration camps must be abolished.

Most of them advocate the decentralization of the farms but oppose the decentralization of manufacturing or the decentralization of heavy industry, though they would welcome the return of private enterprise to commerce.

CONTACT POSSIBLE

One of the encouraging things about the escapees is that they disprove the belief widely held in the West that the years of Marxist-Leninist-Stalinist indoctrination must have wiped out all capacity for individual thought and initiative and established a new type of mind, impervious to outside ideologies. The minds I found among the escapees were minds which present no difficulty for us in the West to understand and establish contact with.—OFNS Copyright.

As Our Readers See It

BOUNDARY LINE

Having paid taxes into the Saanich Municipality for many years without grounds for serious complaint, my intention is to vote "no" on the forthcoming plebiscite.

My additional contention is that a definite boundary should have been set. For instance, it could have been east and west one mile south of Royal Oak, or the same one mile north of Royal Oak, in either case a proper division could be made.

As the matter stands now, the dividing line may be drawn north of Elk Lake, for the reason that the former Ward Five ratepayers are very far from agreeing on a Saanich split. The misapprehension of funds as charged has not been proven. Nor have the outer sections failed to get their representatives in office. PHILIP HOLLOWAY, R.R.1, Saanichton.

TWO CAMPS

"Humanism" turns Humorist when he says that he rather believes that the universe made itself than to think it was made by an "hypothetical" (?) maker! Ingersoll (perhaps it was Payne) visiting one day his friend, a well-known theologian, was shown by him a revolving globe of the earth and its relation to some of the other heavenly bodies.

On examining the wonderful mechanism of that globe, Ingersoll exclaimed: "My, that is wonderful; who made it?" To which the quick retort came: "Are you, Ingersoll, asking me who made this globe? Why, it made itself!"

The opportunities that can be created through the development of our natural resources are immeasurable. President Truman.

By CLARKE BEACH

Associated Press News Analyst (For DeWitt Mackenzie)

PEACE talk, from two widely divergent angles, has been a leading theme in Washington for some days.

Many top American officials, from President Truman down, have been saying that the outlook for peace is better now than for some time because rearmament is progressing satisfactorily. They say the military strength which the Atlantic Pact countries are developing will act as a deterrent to Russia if she contemplates an attack.

But Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, in the proposals recently made public, suggested that new negotiations be commenced to bring the armaments race under control. Then yesterday a bi-partisan group of 11 senators and representatives proposed that Congress advocate an immediate special session of the U.N. General Assembly to stop the armaments race.

Dean Acheson, Secretary of State, yesterday expressed sympathy with Lie's proposals and gave assurance that the United States would continue its four-year effort in the United Nations to find some method for effective armaments control. But in the following statement he made it clear that he does not feel that a reduction in armaments by the western powers at this time will promote the cause of peace:

"We must carry forward in our own determination to create situations of strength in the free world because this is the only basis on which last agreement with the Soviet government is possible. This in our judgment is the road to peace."

If any new disarmament negotiations were begun at this time, the view of diplomatic officials in Washington is that the Soviet Union would adopt its customary practice of using the conference as a means of promoting some purpose of its own. And real disarmament is unlikely to be that purpose.

FIRST DIP

The Times of London

There is the first dip of the year, only to be appreciated in all its joy and terror by the cowardly occasional bather who has not been in since August last. "Ah!" he says, in these days, "it's getting time for a swim," and after a period of reflection that varies from 10 days to a couple of months he does at length turn his steps to the pool or the river or the beach and, outwardly nonchalant but inwardly quaking, take a first shy plunge.

In some seasons this first dip is also the last, but more often there is a decent interval between the two and the fine-weather fellow is able to enjoy, about the end of August, the luxury of taking a sad farewell of the dear old bathing place until another summer comes. These are trivial joys and pangs, it may be said, but they are at least the summer bather's very own—and nothing on earth or in the waters would persuade him to exchange them for the altogether nobler and deeper emotions of the better man who bathes the whole year round.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

THERE'S a particular exasperation," said the Elevator Man, "about some burglaries. It's bad enough to be robbed of jewelry, or money or a car. But those are more or less normal targets for thieves. You expect them to go for things like that—and they don't let you down. But it's when they branch out and lift the unexpected thing that they get extra attention. Even burglars have to follow the proper pattern or people will resent it. Going down!"

"Take, for instance," said the Elevator Man, "that case in Muncie, Indiana, where prowlers robbed a fuel office. I don't know what else they took, but the thing that got them into the news columns 3,000 miles away was the fact that they stole the electric eye burglar alarm. That's rubbing it in. There are lots of examples. Somebody steals a watchdog. No matter what they took besides, that adds insult to injury. Someone breaks into a house and swipes the silverware—and also steals the owner's gloves to hide any telltale fingerprints. The fella who steals a car is a crook. But stealing the same car with a load of Christmas presents in the back seat, however small their value, makes him more than that. A little touch like that can change the whole picture. Main floor!"

"The public," said the Elevator Man, "will often nurse a sneaking admiration for a criminal. Perhaps it's his daring or his ability. But once he stops stealing Cadillacs and makes off with a kid's toy wagon, he's marked. Crime is one thing; meanness is another. We can take a loss—especially the other fellow's—with a grin. But the man who was said to be so mean he'd steal skim milk from a blind kitten and sell it to an orphanage for cream is outside the pale. He's not only evil, he's unpleasant. And that's far worse."

Labor Minister Indicates Job Insurance Extension

Deputy Minister of Labor Arthur MacNamara has written the Victoria Trades and Labor Council, indicating unemployment insurance benefits will be extended some time in the future to some workers not now covered. The deputy's letter came in response to one sent by the council to Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, asking for an extension of benefits and a shortening of the present nine-day waiting period. Mr. MacNamara said ways were being sought to overcome administrative problems so that certain classes of workers now outside the limits of the act would be covered. With respect to shortening the waiting period, he said when the matter was last discussed the time was not opportune for ordering any reduction.

THE HOME GARDEN

Proper Tying Of Plants Something Of An Art

By JACK G. BEASTALL
The tying of plants, either to control their habit or to prevent wind damage, is something of an art.

There is more to it than driving a stake and hauling the growth into an unnatural bunch with a piece of string. With high-growing plants it is essential that the stakes be set when the plants are set out. In the case of perennials the stakes should be driven when the spring growth starts.

As the growth develops its habit is guided by judicious tying to the stake or stakes. The word "guided" is the keynote of the entire operation. The finished job must be devoid of any artificial look if it is to be pleasing to the eye.

CONCEAL STAKE

This means that branches will require tying separately or in groups of three or four, and the stake itself must be concealed as much as possible.

The material used for making the ties is quite important. While the majority of home gardeners use ordinary, tight-woven wrapping twine, it is not considered good for this purpose. It tends to cut the stems and cause breaking in high winds. A loosely woven cord, such as binder twine, is much better.

although more difficult to use. Raffia has always been at the top of the list and may be purchased from any seed or feed store.

Prepared ties, consisting of a fine wire sealed between two pieces of coarse paper, may also be purchased, and these save many hours of labor where much tying has to be done.

HOW TO TIE

Regardless of what material you may use, always knot it firmly around the stake first, leaving two ends of equal length. Tie these ends loosely around the branch, allowing enough slack to permit increase in diameter as the plant grows. Place the knot to one side so that there will be no chaffing.

When working with larger plants, a series of loops from a central stake, each controlling a few stems, gives a better-looking job than one stake at the back and a cord around the entire plant.

Social Security At 40 Labor Council Objective

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council will ask the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada at its annual convention to be held at Montreal in September to press the federal government to provide social security benefit for all Canadian workers over 40 who are left without work and without unemployment insurance benefits.

When the question was discussed at a council meeting Wednesday night, delegates expressed concern that many employers in industry considered men over 40 too old to work.

The meeting voted in favor of asking the congress convention to again petition the government to lower the age requirements for old age pension applicants and to do away with the means test.

The council thought the age for men should be lowered to 65 and the age for women cut to 60. In addition, the council proposed old age pensioners should be provided with a monthly allotment of $60.

Another resolution the council decided to take to the congress meeting, will ask that the incoming executive of the congress to meet with leaders of other national trade union bodies in respect to making joint representations to government. Instead of having separate representations as at the present time.

It was noted the Trades and Labor Congress (A.F.L.) and the Canadian Congress of Labor (C.I.O.) have in the past asked for almost identical legislation covering social security, housing and other important matters, but have each asked separately. Together, it was suggested, they would carry more weight.

Discrimination Charged On Oak Bay School Costs

Reeve Gibbs To Seek Interview With Education Minister On Property Load

A charge that Oak Bay is being discriminated against with regard to school cost was made by Reeve P. A. Gibbs at a meeting of Oak Bay Council Wednesday.

The reeve, after an outburst against high school costs, announced his intention of seeking an interview with Councillor R. B. Wilson, chairman of the finance committee, an interview with Education Minister W. T. Straith.

"The argument that school costs are reduced by government grant is fallacious," stated the reeve, who expressed his appreciation to school trustee Austin Curtis for "publicly stating" that Oak Bay is being discriminated against regarding school costs.

Reeve Gibbs said that any relief afforded property owners by sales tax grants to municipalities was offset by the sales tax levy on personal purchases.

He pointed out that the School Act stipulated that school costs are to be raised according to assessment values of 100 per cent on land and 75 per cent on improvements. "That is a statutory requirement for financing school and educational costs," he said. "Consequently property owners must carry that burden . . . and that burden can be nothing else but school costs."

The reeve claimed that any special grant by the provincial government did not reduce the cost of education. "It simply discloses the fact that a different type of tax has been imposed to help pay the increased cost of education," he stated.

He added: "Any relief which the sales tax grants afford the property owner is offset by sales tax on his buying. He thus pays the costs of education by paying two taxes. It is a fallacious argument to assert that costs are reduced by government grants."

The proposal to legislate sales tax grants as specific offset to education costs would not reduce the cost of education, according to the reeve.

The reeve felt the costs could only be reduced by curtailing those expenses entering into the costs. He was of the opinion that this could not be achieved under the present educational program.

So Pravda Says—U.S. Trying Out Germs On Eskimos

LONDON (Reuter)—A Pravda article Wednesday accused United States of testing biological weapons on Eskimos in the far north of Canada last year, causing an outbreak of plague, a Tass report received here says.

The writer, reviewing a book on bacteriological warfare by Professor Theodore Rosebury of Columbia University, New York, describes the professor as a "man-eater," who "savoured with delight all the possibilities of applying bacteria and poisons."

Rosebury's book, "Peace of the Plague," which appeared last year, said biological weapons are superior to the atom bomb, Pravda said.

"It appears that biological weapons attract the American imperialist gangsters because they can be used to destroy or disable people without destroying their property," the paper added.

ST. LAURENT TO PAY RENT ON HOME

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's prime ministers will have to pay rent on the official residence being built for them by Parliament.

As proposed by the government in a bill before the Commons, the prime minister will pay $5,000 a year for food and lodging for himself and his family, to be applied against government costs of maintaining and operating the establishment. Cost of official hospitality will be paid by the government, which also will pay the staff of the big home.

Bogus Money Distributed Totals $500,000, RCMP Says

TORONTO (CP)—A recently smashed international counterfeit ring distributed $500,000 in bogus Canadian $10 bills a senior Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer said.

The gang, with headquarters near Buffalo, also printed counterfeit U.S. $10 and $20 bills. It was broken up by the joint effort of the R.C.M.P. and United States secret service agents, who arrested a Buffalo engraver and a number of his accomplices.

"It is the biggest and most important counterfeit ring which we ever had any experience," the R.C.M.P. officer said.

About $100,000 of the bills have been found in Ontario. The R.C.M.P. said about $40,000 in bogus money was recovered with the arrest at Guelph, Ont., of Frank Cipolla, 30; his wife, Edith May LaPranerie, 24, of Brockville, Ont.

Charles Cipolla, 27, a brother of Frank, was remanded.

Winnipegger Quits Flood Fight Moves His House To Higher Ground

WINNIPEG (CP) — Walter Senick has had enough of Red River floods. He's going to move, house and all from low-lying, suburban West Kildonan to a high-and-dry spot in Winnipeg proper.

Walter called quits to a long fight against the Red when he saw the damage caused by this year's flood to his home on Scotia Street.

As soon as the street conditions permit, he said, he'll transfer his modern, two-story home to McAdam Street. He has a permit from the city.

"I won't take any more chances here. No more river view for me."

His home in West Kildonan faces the river. This year the water surrounded it to a depth of 10 feet. Wednesday he tried to get in, but was unable to force the swollen doors, and had to climb through a second-story window.

The muddy water line in his front room is six feet five inches above the floor. The walls are cracked, the floors buckled under the slime, the ceiling bubbles, the woodwork is warped and mildewed.

His piano was raised on trestles to the ceiling. It capsized into the water and is a total loss.

Walter, a general contractor, built the house in 1941. He said that every spring he has had to "plug the sewers and pump out seepage."

"In 1948 the water was just at the first floor. Even in 1949, another two inches and our grounds would have been covered."

He figures his loss at about $5,000. It will take him three months—"longer than to build a new house"—to make repairs.

P.S.—His wife and two children have no objection to moving.

Caracas, capital of Venezuela, is a beautiful city with a temperate year-round climate.

Says-Secession Grounds In Saanich Relief Act

Ward Six Group Warns Against Rumors From Opponents Of Move To Break Away

The Saanich Relief Act of 1927 would never have been drawn up if there had not been grounds that rural Ward Six in Saanich was not suited for the municipality.

Councillor William C. Kersey, veteran council representative for that area, made this claim today.

"The late Judge Lampman, in his report which led to the Saanich Relief Act, advocated the divorce of the rural area from urban Saanich and also saw the inner areas going in with the city in the future," said Mr. Kersey.

Ward Six Ratepayers' Association in a pamphlet being distributed now, urges a vote of "yes" for secession for that area when the ratepayers go to the polls Saturday.

"There will be no top-heavy administration as many services will be condensed in the interests of economy," is the association claim should independence be granted.

The pamphlet warns ratepayers of the ward not to be influenced from voting "yes" in the plebiscite by "mischievous rumors which have been carefully calculated to cause fear in the district."

President Sydney Pickles, who is also a council member, thinks the separation will be best for both areas, the advantages showing as time goes on.

He also believes present services can be maintained at no increased costs, with even a saving indicated.

Suggestion has been made that the new municipality, if approved, be administered by a reeve and four councillors in an honorary capacity.

Mr. Pickles says that although taxes have been raised this year, the outer areas were not getting the road maintenance service due them because of heavy need in the more densely-populated urban areas.

He claims the abolition of the ward system took representation away from the more sparsely-populated outlying areas.

Capt. Nat Gray points out that policing services could be provided at reasonable cost. Capt. J. Wood of the fire committee has plans for a volunteer fire department set-up to take care of fire dangers—three volunteer units, at Brentwood, Keating and Saanichton—to provide 24-hour service.

"Vote 'yes' for an opportunity to master your own rural problems!" is the cry in the ranks of the Ward Five Ratepayers Association.

Eight Drown In Ditch As Truck Overturns

COURTLAND, Calif. (AP)—At least eight men drowned Wednesday night when a truck carrying more than 20 farm workers flipped over into an irrigation ditch near here.

Rescuers found seven dead after the truck was pulled from the ditch. Another died while being taken to a hospital in Sacramento, 25 miles away. Three were hospitalized, and as many as six remained unaccounted for.

One of the dead was the driver, Ray Pacis of Clarksburg. He was trapped inside the cab. The others—not immediately identified—were pinned beneath the truck as it lay in five feet of water for a half-hour.

Twenty-one passengers had been accounted for. Witnesses estimated there were between 22 and 27 riding in the open-back stake truck. Some of them jumped to safety as the vehicle rolled back and toppled into the ditch.

HOT ROD LAD LOSES JALOPY

VANCOUVER (CP) — No more hot rodding for this lad. The 17-year-old youth was picked up by police after numerous complaints about his driving. But the matter was left with his father, who took over the offending jalopy and promised speedy sale thereof.

Artist's Conception Of New Victoria Curling Rink

This is what the Victoria Club Curling Rink will look like when completed. At present raising funds for the project, Curling Club officials hope to have the rink completed by Dec. 1. Estimated cost is in the neighborhood of $100,000. Site of the proposed rink is on the west side of Quadra Street, midway between Caledonia and Pembroke Streets. The lot has a frontage of 180 feet and a depth of 240 feet. Several hundred Victorians have already signified their intention to curl but those interested should register as soon as possible at the club headquarters, 1450 Douglas Street. Work will commence when sufficient funds have been raised to guarantee completion of the building.

Seventh Place Target Tonight

With another doubleheader on tab in Salem tonight, Victoria Athletics will get another opportunity to vacate the W.L.'s dungeon, where they have been imprisoned for nearly two months.

However, there are still two provisions needed to reach seventh place. The A's need to sweep tonight's two contests, and Vancouver Caps have to drop their tilt to Tri-City Braves.

After big John Marshall threw a three-hitter at the Senators to give the A's a convincing 6 to 1 decision, Salem bounded back with a 7 to 5 decision in the second half of last night's twin bill.

For Marshall it was his sixth straight win this year, against a single defeat suffered in his first assignment. Marshall aided his own cause no little, chipping in with three of the A's 14 safeties off Bill Osborn.

Billy Dunn's two-run single in the third was the big blow, as the A's turned five hits into four big runs. Only Salem tally in the seventh was of the unearned variety.

Pigeon Racing

The Victoria and District Racing Pigeon Club recently held its third old bird race of the season, from Hope, an airline distance of 105 miles, eight lofts sending 105 birds.

Considering the strong head wind the birds encountered, fairly good times were made.

Positions and times as follows:

C. Woolley, Blue Boy	3:24.58
R. Woolley, V2	3:24.58
Cox, Nancy	3:25.23
Concord, Logo Star	3:27.26
Crowe, Marcel	3:28.26
Knox, Black Knight	4:10.42
Arlett, Slow Time	4:18.42
Alexander	No Report

B. Woolley won all pools.

off the offerings of Jim Probst sent the small left-hander to an early shower. Ron Smith took over in the second and got along nicely in his four-inning stay, limiting winners to a singleton in the second to give them a 6 to 1 lead.

Southpaw Jim Hedgecock took over in the sixth after the Athletics closed the gap, 6 to 4, in their half, but the ex-Capitano hurler was nicked for another Salem tally. A walk, hit, and Jim Moore's outfield fly gave the A's their final run in the top of the seventh.

All other W.L. fixtures were rained out again last night. The Athletics and Salem close out their current series with this evening's doubleheader. Joe Mishasek will likely hurl the opener, with Warren Noyes the probable choice for the after-piece.

Jokers Victors In Junior Boxla

Held on even terms with Pro Pats in the opening quarter, Selkirk-Jokers suddenly ran wild in the second frame and maintained their lead to outlast the Legionnaires, 11 to 7, in the opening junior lacrosse game here Tuesday.

Clubs entered the second frame all square, 2 to 2, but Jokers pushed home four tallies without a reply from Pro Pats in the second period. Losers outscored Jokers, 3 to 2, in the third but winners reversed the margin again in the finale.

Second Game

Kinch Returns To Blank Brentwood

George Kinch is back in senior A softball company again much to the dismay of Brentwood Aces.

Kinch rejoined his old mates, now under the colors of Douglas Tire, and hurled them to a 3 to 0 shutout over the suburban nine.

By virtue of the win, Tiremen hold a two-game buge over the second-place Chinese Students.

Aces, after their last two convincing victories, were given an edge to knock over Douglas Tire, but Kinch soon showed who was master. He had the suburbanites off balance all night with his portside hurling.

However, John Furmston of the Aces also turned in a masterful hurling job. Both pitchers gave up only four hits. Furmston picked up the only extra-base hit of the game when he hit to his off-field in the second inning. He was also the only Brentwood runner to reach third base, when Toad Garmet's relay from leftfield got away from Bill Reynolds at third base.

Douglas Tire scored what proved to be the winning run in the bottom of the first when Reynolds reached first on a walk and completed the circuit on successive singles by Vic Dale and Jimmy Morrison.

The Tiremen scored their last two runs in the eighth. Reynolds led off with his second walk. Garmet sacrificed him along, and Dale topped a ball which stopped dead in front of the plate. Jim Turner made a play but was too late to catch the fast-running Dale at first base.

Reynolds went to third on the play. Morrison worked Furmston in rightfield with Dale and Reynolds advancing after the catch. Douglas Tire pulled a double steal on the next pitch to Chick Newman and Dale came in standing up with the third run of the game.

For the first time this season, pitchers had the edge on the batters. In previous games, strikeouts had been at a premium and walks a dime a dozen. But last night Kinch blew his first one past 10 batters, while Furmston fanned seven. Kinch gave up only one walk, while Furmston tried in the latter stages of the game and was charged with seven free passes.

Next contest in Central Park is billed Friday night at 6:30 when Chinese Students will tangle with Bluebird Cubs.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER

It was Wednesday morning. Business manager Reg Patterson of the Athletics was looking rather morbid. The A's hadn't played since Saturday and a couple of doubleheaders were coming up.

"What's new?" I said.

"What's new?" he answered. "It'll be news when we play a game at Salem. We haven't played there since last year. Car you imagine: Four games rained out in succession. They should have let Salem get out of the league when they wanted to last winter."

"How's the pitching staff," I said.

"It's all right now but what it'll be like by the end of the week, I don't know," Pat answered. "Those doubleheaders kill you. And then we meet Yakima."

Novikoff Will Help Bears

"Yeh. I see Yakima's got Lou Novikoff," I interjected.

"I wonder if that's good or bad?" Pat said. "It can only be bad for the rest of the league, especially if that guy starts hitting. He's like Greco. He bruises the air when he misses."

"But he's been playing softball," I noted. "His timing will be off."

"Maybe so," Pat agreed. "Just the same those Bears are going to be tough from now on. And they've got Pete Coscarart, too."

"Well, you could have had him, you know," I reminded Patterson.

"What would we do with him?" Pat said. "Sure he might have helped us, but some of our other high-class players were in the same category at the beginning of the season and look what's happened."

Baseball School In July

"How about a baseball school this year," I said.

"Say, I'm glad you asked that question," Patterson answered. "You know I'm often asked why we don't have some Victoria players on our team and why we don't do more for the kids. I would like to answer those critics."

"Most of the fans don't know that we can't touch a ball player until he has graduated from high school, but we've got our eyes on a few. And we're going to have another baseball school this summer on July 25 and 26. It will be our third. School will be out, too, so if there's any likely-looking prospects about, this will be their chance."

Kids Getting Their Chance

"Speaking about local kids, I think we've done pretty well though there are none on the team. We started off Eric Gard, Bob Brousseau and Bernie Clarkson. Brousseau and Gard belong to the Yankees. Bob's with Brownsville of the Class C Rio Grande League while Gard is at Twin Falls in the Pioneer League. Clarkson's with the A's. People don't realize it but it's a big jump from the sandlots to Class B baseball and some boys won't leave home for that preliminary period."

"What do you think of the new Island League?" I then queried the pro baseball boss. "Any material there?"

"I think it's the best thing that could have happened," he answered. "Now there will be a senior league for the kids to start when they leave the Minor Baseball Association. And competition will be keener, too."

STARS INCREASE LEAD

Rainiers Within Game Of Sixth-Place Seals

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Ben Wade of Hollywood handcuffed the San Diego Padres last night with seven hits as he and his teammates enlarged their Pacific Coast League lead with a 10 to 1 victory.

The Stars are now two games in front of San Diego—thanks to Wade's sixth victory of the season.

Los Angeles and Portland were rained out of their doubleheader, with the Oregon dew halting play for the second successive evening. Both Oakland and Seattle chalked their second win in a row. Oakland trounced Sacramento 9 to 3 and Seattle took a 6 to 3 win over the Seals.

The barging Rainiers came to within a game and a half of the sixth-place Seals.

Swim Relay Team Honored

Winners of the junior girls' 200-yard free-style relay and swimming title at the city swimming championships in the Crystal Garden Monday night, the "Y" team was presented with the Pro Patria Trophy by Ernie Fox, Pro Patria sports chairman.

Each swimmer also received individual statuettes. Members of the winning team, left to right, include Ann Heywood, Norma Stewart, Gillian Watson and Gail Stott. Miss Stewart also cracked the Canadian record for 50-yard breaststroke.

Kerrigan Still Tops Pitchers, Marshall Next

TACOMA (AP)—Thanks to some lusty hitting by his Tacoma Tiger mates Monday night at Spokane, Bob Kerrigan remains the Western International League's leading pitcher with 10 victories and nary a defeat.

The Tacoma southpaw, who racked up No. 10 when the Tigers broke a 4-all deadlock with a six-run uprising in the ninth inning, hasn't been too puzzling to enemy batsmen of late—he's given up 51 hits in his last four starts, 15 of them Monday night—but he's been tough with men on base.

Moreover, Kerrigan remains the league's most generous pitcher in the matter of walks, having issued free transportation to only 22 men in 95½ innings of toil.

A further breakdown on the pudgy portlander's record, as revealed in figures released today by the office of Robert B. Abel, league president, showed he had given up but 35 runs, 10 of them unearned. His earned-run average to date is 2.34.

Victor's John Marshall is second with a 6 and 1 mark.

Experience Pays Off For Eagles

Three-run outburst in the first, fourth and seventh frames embroidered the defeat of the young Capitals in their first Lower Island Amateur Baseball League contest at Athletic Park last night. The more-experienced Eagles walked into top place with a convincing 10 to 4 decision.

Losers were not outdone in the hit column, as the clubs divided 14 safeties evenly. Five errors paved the way for seven unearned runs by the lodgemen, however.

Playing before 68 paying customers, the youngsters pushed over a singleton in the first when Jack Wright led off with a single off veteran Stan Davies. Successive walks to Glenn Charlton and Cerne Evans loaded the hassocks and Hollie MacArthur's infield out sent over Wright.

A hit batsman, walk, sacrifice, Doug Peden's double, a fielder's choice and outfield fly gave Eagles a 3 to 1 lead in their half, however. Caps narrowed the margin in the third when Charlton singled and went to third on Evans' base blow. Hollie MacArthur knocked in Charlton with a long fly to centre.

WINNING RALLY

Winners salted it away in the bottom of the fourth as Davies drew a life on Roy Logie's error and went down to second as Geoff Worrall sacrificed. Rookie Wright's safety sent him to third and Jack Wright's error on Ken Higgs' grounder sent Davies across. Peden singled home Wright and Higgs to make it 6 to 2.

Yarrows Softballers In Third-Place Tie

Yarrows gained a third-place tie with West Heat in the senior B men's softball loop last night by trimming Army, Navy and Air Force vets 11 to 6 at Bullen Park.

Winners came from behind twice to notch the decision. Tonight at upper Central Park, Hudson Lumber tackles the West Heat nine.

Tigers Cooled Off By Yankee Home Run Bats

By JACK HAND

Cooling off the hot clubs is an old Yankee custom. Now it's sizzling Detroit that New York has dunked in chill-water. Red Rolfe's Tigers strode into Yankee Stadium with seven straight victories and an .002 edge on first place in the American League.

Yesterday the Yankees put the freeze on Detroit 5 to 4 in the opener of an important three-game series.

Home-run power from the bats of Joe DiMaggio, Phil Rizzuto and Billy Johnson swung the balance of power in a tight battle between Lefty Hal Newhouser and Vic Raschi.

Each time the Tigers scrambled into a lead, a Yankee home run would pull them back. Finally, a single won the game. It was a ball hit by Yogi Berra to shortstop Johnny Lipton that handcuffed the Tiger infielder in the seventh.

While the Yankees and Tigers wrestled, Boston piled up a staggering 20 to 4 score against St. Louis.

The Red Sox blasted 23 hits off Brownie pitching while Joe Dobson coasted to his seventh victory. In the last five games, Boston scored a total of 64 runs, better than 12 a game.

THOMAS HOMERS

Vern Stephens and Clyde Volmer each hit two homers and Walt Droho hit one. Roy Sievers and Leo Thomas each homered for St. Louis.

Bobby Shantz pitched the Athletics' first shutout of the year, a 5 to 0 night victory over Chicago. Ray Scarborough was the victim.

Washington snapped its seven-game losing streak, nipping Cleveland 5 to 4 on Johnny Ostrowski's eight-inning homer following Irv Noren's single.

Once again Brooklyn took over undisputed possession of the National League lead, whipping Pittsburgh 9 to 0 while St. Louis took a bad 10 to 2 licking from Boston.

Don Newcombe, giant Dodger ace, followed his recent five-hit conquest of St. Louis with a six-hit blanking of the weary Pirates.

PHILS IN SECOND

Rookie Bob Miller lifted Philadelphia into second place.

Rolfe Claims Ball Livelier This Season

NEW YORK (AP)—Manager Red Rolfe of Detroit Tigers, the man with probably the best pitching staff in baseball, took a vehement swipe today at the current big league baseball.

To hear him talk you'd think his pitchers were getting their ears pinned back regularly. Actually in the last 14 games, the Tigers only sent in a reliever three times.

"You can't tell me today's ball isn't faster than last year's," said Rolfe. "That's why you get all those six-run innings. I don't think it's the bad weather. I think it's the ball."

"It's supposed to be just the same as before. I don't know what could be the cause, unless maybe the materials are better."

"Fellows are just plain hitting the ball farther. Take our George Kell (American League batting champion in 1949). He doesn't plant himself at the plate. He just slaps at the ball. Yet he's getting a lot of extra base hits this year with long, long, long drives."

"Of course it's none of my business, and I don't have any inside information on the subject."

Marshall Aid Hits Canadian Wheat

Commons Committee Learns How Plan Decreases Sales

OTTAWA (CP) — A wheat expert indicates that United States Marshall Plan aid is hitting into Canadian wheat sales. George Melvor, chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board, told the Commons agricultural committee Wednesday that many of Canada's traditional customers are unable to buy Canadian wheat because they receive Marshall Plan aid, which requires them to buy U.S. supplies.

At the same time the Bureau of Statistics reported that the wheat supplies available for export and carry-over in all parts of the world have climbed from 749,000,000 bushels at May 1 a year ago to 867,000,000 bushels, an increase of 118,000,000 bushels.

This increase in world supply, coupled with the loss of some traditional markets through Marshall aid policy may form two vital factors in the sale of Canadian wheat in the new crop year beginning next August.

Negotiations under the international wheat agreement will open in London before the new crop year begins. The past prices next year call for a minimum of $1.54 and a maximum of $1.98 a bushel. Canada has been getting $2 a bushel this year from the United Kingdom, her biggest overseas wheat market.

Mr. Melvor, who normally makes his headquarters in Winnipeg, testified as the Commons committee opened study of the board's 1948-49 report.

He was asked by opposition members why Canadian wheat, sold to customers other than Britain, was 35 to 40 cents a bushel below U.S. levels.

The reason, said Mr. Melvor, was because much of the U.S. wheat went to areas in which the U.S. has responsibility, such as Germany and Japan. It was a case of one U.S. government agency selling wheat to another government agency.

"They give it away," interjected Trade Minister Howe, a committee member, who is responsible to the government for Canada's foreign wheat sales.

Examples of traditional Canadian customers who have been forced to forego Canadian supplies, said Mr. Melvor, are the Netherlands and Norway. The Netherlands normally took a

Slackening Of Steel Production Expected

NEW YORK (AP) — Some slackening this summer in the "torrid pace" of the steel producers was predicted Wednesday by the Iron Age, weekly metalworking magazine.

Production has been more than 100 per cent of rated capacity since the middle of April and "it is a little short of a miracle that it has been sustained this long," the publication said. It rates this week's operations at 101.5 per cent capacity.

The weekly says a confidential survey of U.S. steel companies revealed plans to add 2,000,000 more tons of annual ingot capacity this year, and another 1,790,000 tons in 1951.

Third Shelton Brother Slain; Only Two Remain

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (AP)—An assassin hiding in the bushes cut the fast-shrinking Shelton brothers clan down to two members Wednesday.

Roy, 39, a quiet farmer who never was publicly identified with any of the Shelton gang's bloody wars, was the latest slaying victim.

He was cultivating a field on his Pond Creek bottom farm, 12 miles southeast of here about 8 a.m. when two bullets tore out of a patch of underbrush.

He toppled head first off his moving tractor, hit in the back and groin. A harrow and disk rig the tractor was pulling passed over him, mutilating his body. The killer escaped.

It was the third ambush attack on the Sheltons in 16 days and the eighth in less than three years.

Only two of the five Shelton brothers are left. They are "Big Earl," 54, twice the target of fumbling assassins in the last 13 months, and Delta, 50, a farmer who steered clear of gangland activities.

Brother Carl, 69, was slain Oct. 23, 1947, and brother Bernie, 50, July 26, 1948.

Flying Saucer Hits Passer-by

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters)—A flying saucer was seen in Geneva Wednesday.

Madame Charlotte Dussal was walking down one of the city's main streets when it hit her on the head.

The accompanying cup, dropped from a balcony, missed her.

'Fountainhead' Opens at Oak Bay

As a novel "The Fountainhead" has had one of the greatest sales in the history of modern publishing. It is estimated that approximately 15,000,000 persons have read the book. The film version is at the Oak Bay Theatre today.

Latest Tarzan Film at Atlas

A mysterious white-skinned tribe in the heart of the African jungle sparks the exciting plot of Edgar Rice Burroughs' "Tarzan and the Slave Girl," produced by Sol Lesser and now being shown at the Atlas Theatre.

Dominion Theatre

Earls Court Rangers Hockey Club had a keen fan in film star Lana Morris, currently playing in "The Chiltern Hundreds" at the Dominion Theatre. Other film personalities and technicians are also ardent ice hockey followers.

On one visit, Lana found herself pounding the hat of the man sitting in front of her. Presently, the stranger turned round and Lana looked down on the face of director Edward Dmytryk.

Royal Theatre

June Allyson goes in for a bit of man-chasing as well as reforming in M-G-M's delightful romantic comedy, "The Reformer and the Redhead," current attraction at the Royal Theatre.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Displeased With Movies Of Bands, Kenton Plans One

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Weary of movies that paint a false picture of the band business, music man Stan Kenton is planning to make a picture of his own.

"Hollywood has never done right by the band business," said the 37-year-old promoter of "Progressive Jazz." "There were a few good scenes in a picture called 'Syncope' a few years ago, but the rest of it wasn't so good. I haven't seen 'Young Man With a Horn,' but the boys in the band tell me it's not so hot."

So Kenton, to whom nothing seems impossible, will film his own production when his band featuring Montreal trumpeter Maynard Ferguson goes on the road next season.

"It will be a documentary," he declared. "We'll start when the first bookings start to come in. Then we'll show the boys being fitted for their uniforms, the band rehearsing new numbers and finally hitting the road."

"We'll take the audience right backstage and show the wives knitting and talking together while the show goes on. We'll show everything."

At present Kenton is conserving his strength for his concert Saturday night at Hollywood Bowl, which he hopes to fill his 18,000 capacity. He recently returned from presenting his modernistic music in 77 cities in 90 days on the road. He came back with a pessimistic view of the present state of the band business.

NO ENTHUSIASM

"There is no enthusiasm," he lamented. "When we come to town, we're the first exciting band that has played there all year. We get everybody all steamed up about music, but there's nobody to come in and follow us. The enthusiasm lasts for a few months and then dies out. When we come back the following year, we have to create an audience again."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

stand. Naturally, North would prefer to hold more than one diamond. He would also prefer to hold greater strength outside of his long spade suit. However, North cannot pick and choose. He must decide on the basis of the hand that he actually holds.

In match-point play, North wants to make as many points as possible. As all tournament players know, a difference of 30 or 40 points, which is unimportant at rubber bridge, is the difference between a good and a poor score in tournament play.

North should reflect that a game in spades or no-trump would probably be worth in the neighborhood of 450 points for his side. (Three hundred points for the game and the rest for the trick score.) However, if North and South can set the opponents two tricks, they will get 500 points. This is more than North and South could hope to score by playing the hand themselves.

Moreover, even if the hand will not produce a game for North and South, it may still produce a one-trick set of two diamonds. This would be worth 200 points, more than any part-score contract that North and South could hope to expect to make.

North should, therefore, hope that if his partner's hand is good enough to produce a game it will be good enough to set two diamonds one trick; and that if it is not good enough to produce a game, it will still be good enough to set two diamonds one trick.

When the hand was actually played, South made eleven tricks at no-trump by leading towards his king of clubs.

At two diamonds doubled South would open the king of spades and would discard a club when East ruffed the third spade. East would lead a trump and South would take it and return a heart. North would return a club. At this point, East could hold the loss to 500 points only by putting up the ace of clubs—but even 500 points would be too big a price to pay.

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

IT ISN'T THE extra hour at night that gets her, the wife and mother explains when she discusses daylight saving. It's the early, early morning, when she has to get up, that does her in. That's the vicious part of the clock's circle in this joyous practice of giving the people more sunshine.

Whatever time a person rises in the morning, daylight saving makes that hour the "crack o' dawn." You're used to grumbling your way out of bed at 6.45. Comes summer time, and 6.45 is 5.45 Standard Time. It makes all the difference, psychologically between the bargain at $1.98 and the high-priced article at $2.

SOMEHOW OR other you just can't readjust your evenings. If you stay out until 10 in the balmy dusk, you still feel you want an extra hour or two indoors to do your reading, to have a small snack, or to talk over family affairs before you retire. The hands of the clock swing past bedtime, but that's all right, you say to yourself, it's really an hour earlier. When the alarm goes off the next morning, you realize you've been sparring with a two-fisted puncher. The little jabs of tiredness the night before are nothing to the haymaker of fatigue that hits you when you have to roll out.

The well-organized family doesn't suffer from such delusions and their groggy after-math. The well-organized family takes due note of the changed time, adjusts its living accordingly, and everything is rosy. But where does the well-organized family live? It must have some secret existence unknown to the average citizen.

When the clocks are advanced, you feel that you'll soon grow accustomed to it. You're tired the first day or two, week or two, but you figure it will wear off. You'll get used to it. You do. After a few weeks you've been tired so long you can't remember what it was like to be otherwise.

THE YOUNGSTERS love daylight saving. It does so much for them. By the time they reach school age they start edging toward a later bedtime. Daylight saving gives them another excuse to stay up. Shucks, they don't want to go to bed when the sun's still shining.

Maybe you've tried being tough with the small fry. Maybe you've sent them to bed at the regular time in spite of the sunlight that still pours through the blinds. It's a noble experiment. But what happens? You may have them in their pyjamas. You may have confined them to their rooms. That's a moral victory — only it loses its fruits after you've been upstairs a couple of times to remake the beds they've tumbled into rats' nests. You can send a child to bed, but you can't, barring use of sedatives or a stout piece of two-by-four, make him sleep.

Not that youngsters need so much slumber. It makes them passive. Daylight saving puts a little starch into them. When the reduced hours of sleep are over, they come out cranky and fighting; and they're battling up to the last bell at night. Who wants peace and quiet in a home, anyhow? Too moonstruck.

IF YOU THUMB through a little pamphlet put out by the National Committee for School Health Research entitled "The Problem of School Absenteeism," you may be impressed by the shortness with which truancy is dismissed. Playing hooky just doesn't seem to rate any more.

A check at the local school board office confirms that opinion. Boys still go A.W.O.L. from class and the board has a truant officer, but the problem is pretty minor.

The magic an older age used to leave about playing hooky has lost its charm. It isn't high adventure. And schools now, the experts say, are interesting enough to attract the student.

HOOKEY SEEMS to have degenerated into simple physical escape for those who have difficulty with their work. Usually, authorities explain, a truant is a boy who learns slowly, who broods over the criticism his efforts bring and who just wants to get away from a feeling of inferiority. Part of the teacher's job nowadays is to avoid making him feel inferior. The teachers must be succeeding. It's a little harder to get away with hooky now, too. If a student is absent for two or three days, the principal or school nurse phones the home to inquire about him. That lets the cat out of the bag. When a youngster gazes idly out of a classroom window at the June sunshine now, and wonders if he could get away with a few small fibs for an excuse, he has to keep the telephone in the back of his mind. That's technological progress for you.

Watchful Eye Of Forest Rangers In Focus As Fire Hazards Grow

By DAVE STOCK

Everybody sings the praises of the good old summertime and rightfully so. But there are few things totally good, and summer is no exception.

The weeks of fine sunny weather which make vacation time so pleasant, dry out the forests and create a fire hazard. Because B.C. forests are so valuable to the province as a whole and because people will be careless no matter how often they are told to exercise care in the woods, the provincial government has built up over the years an organization to watch over the forests and fight fires when they break out.

The organization is known simply as the Forest Service. Headquarters are situated in Victoria. For operational purposes, the province is divided into five districts. The districts, in turn, are divided into station areas.

The station most familiar to Victorians is at Langford. This is the centre charged with the responsibility of combating forest fires on the southern end of the island. Its territory extends south from Bamberton on one side of the island and Port Renfrew on the other, takes in all the Saanich Peninsula and a few islands at the peninsula's tip.

FOUR LOOKOUTS

There are four lookouts in the territory, counting the auxiliary on Mt. Matheson. The others are at Langford, Mt. Shepherd and Mt. Empress.

When a fire is spotted from any of these lookouts the position is immediately fixed and relayed to the Langford station which dispatches to the scene a "jump crew" from the Langford suppression camp.

These jump crews are comprised mostly of university students on vacation. At Langford, when the suppression camp is at full strength, they number an even dozen.

Trained in fighting forest fires, they rush to the scene in light panel trucks, equipped with shovels, axes, picks, hose and mobile compression units for pumping water from whatever source is available.

In the event of a big fire, the service can call on residents, workers in the area, or passers-by, to help fight the blaze. The service provides necessary equipment.

HIGHLY ORGANIZED

The service is highly organized. Its effectiveness was demonstrated last week-end when two fires were spotted from the Langford lookout. In each case, jump crews were on the spot in time to control the blazes before any damage was done.

Forest Ranger John Greenhouse is in charge of the Langford station and Bert Bodman, a veteran of 21 years with the forest service, is his deputy.

Turkeys Hit By Newcastle

The turkey flock of Charles Stronach, Wellington, was slaughtered Wednesday when federal government inspectors confirmed suspicions that Newcastle disease had infected some of the birds.

It was believed to be the first case of Newcastle among turkeys in B.C. The flock consisted of some 2,600 birds.

The owner will receive full compensation for his lost flock. The Wednesday slaughter of the turkeys was the eighth such slaughter of poultry on Vancouver Island.

AMBER LIGHTS MEAN NON-STOP

Police Chief John Blackstock today advised motorists on their actions when the amber and red traffic lights on Douglas from Pandora to Fort are flashing from 1 to 7 in the morning.

Traffic moving along Douglas Street is cautioned by the flashing amber lights to proceed non-stop carefully. Traffic coming onto Douglas Street from the east and west faced by the flashing red lights must come to a halt before entering the intersections. The flashing red lights are the equivalent of the ordinary stop sign.

Woman Will Have To Pay Premium After Jail Term

The city woman who Wednesday elected to serve three days in jail rather than comply to an order of Magistrate Henry Hall to pay her B.C. Hospital Insurance premium immediately, will still have the payment to make when she is released.

Hospital insurance officers have three ways of collecting. If the woman, Judith Stoddart, 1118 Quadra Street, is employed, they can order her employer to deduct the premium payment from her wages.

If she is not working, they can either issue a certificate of the commission, compelling her to pay in much the same way as a court order, or they can take her to small debts court.

B.C., Dominion Authorities Continue R.C.M.P. Discussions

Ways and means to allow B.C. Provincial Police to retain present rank and seniority and to prevent a reduction in their pay, are being sought in negotiations between federal and provincial governments on the question of having the Royal Canadian Mounted Police taking over police work here.

This was revealed today by Justice Minister Garson, replying to questions asked in the Commons by E. D. Fulton, Progressive Conservative Member for Kamloops.

Mr. Garson said personnel of officers of the R.C.M.P. are examining the matter of having present provincial policemen retain rank and seniority when the federal force takes over.

He said also a study was being made pertaining to maintaining existing pay of those who would be taken into the R.C.M.P.

Interurban Boost Given Approval

The provincial cabinet has given consent to the B.C. Electric to increase freight rates on its interurban mainline line by 20 per cent effective June 16.

The cabinet is reported to be preparing another order allowing a similar increase to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, to take effect on the same date. June 16 has been set as the date for general freight increases throughout Canada's railway system.

Convicted Chinese Delayed Getting Citizenship Papers

A criminal record may prevent Chow Quong, 40, from obtaining Canadian citizenship papers.

Chow, who asked to become a Canadian in County Court today, is the first person with a criminal record in Victoria to apply for citizenship papers. He was represented by George F. Gregory.

Judge H. H. Shandley said the Minister of Justice would have to decide whether Chow was eligible for Canadian citizenship.

"The Act says the applicant must be of good character," stated the judge. "This man has a criminal record. They are mostly liquor convictions."

Mr. Gregory felt that charges were not of a serious nature. The lawyer called upon Dr. D. M. Baillie to give evidence on the character of the accused. "All I know about the man is that he comes to my office as an interpreter," he said.

Another character witness, Rev. Dr. M. F. Leung, Presbyterian minister, told the court he had known Chow for 28 years, but never knew he had a criminal record.
"Does he go to your church?" asked Mr. Gregory.
"Yes," was the reply.

New Type Of Cake Icing Ready To Use In A Minute

By PENNY SAVER

I've got time on my hands and instant coffee, instant potato and one-minute cake icing on the pantry shelf. If there be a housewife, who takes more than minutes to prepare a meal, she might well feel, if you'll pardon the expression, like a slouch. No matter what you pick up at the corner grocery store these days, if it doesn't promise you a minute or less cooking time, you're tempted to leave it back on to the shelf. Can't blame you, though, with so many sunny days ahead you'll be glad of a few extra hours of leisure time.

Well, little lady of the house, not only have they packaged ingredients to help you whip up a tasty cake in quick time, the same company has come up with a one-minute icing to top it off. A British Columbia product it is, and 33 cents will buy you enough icing to add finesse to three 8x8 cakes.

Directions for use of the wonder icing are plainly printed on the back of the package and read something like this: To approximately 1/2 package (one cup) of icing in a warm bowl, add 2 tablespoons of hot water. Mix with beater to a thick whipped cream consistency and spread on your cool cake. How about that?

You'll also find a number of suggestions for many varieties of icing, which can be made by adding grated lemon or orange, fruit juice, cocoa, coffee infusion, chopped and toasted nuts, coconut, crushed berries, pineapple and food colorings.

The beauty of the wee packet lies not only in its quick-as-a-bunny preparation but atop the opening of the package is a heat-sealed stamp and date-of-when the contents should be used.

Save me the bowl, kids, I'll be right over.

A bit of a change of pace I know, but I think I neglected

White Play Clothes Foil For Sun Tan

There's nothing quite like dazzling white play togs to show off bronzed skins in summer months.

Tops in the all-white play clothes class is a casual ensemble composed of shorts and finger-tip jacket in sleek, cool, shark-skin.

Definitely a dress-up ensemble, the combination of trim shorts with jacket reaching almost to the cuffed edges, is a pet for holiday resort, and will provide a perfect foil for sun-tanned limbs.

Always popular, heavy white cotton is tailored into hard-wearing shorts with neat zipper closing at the side, cuffed edges and deep pockets. Perfect for a warm Sunday afternoon at the beach, or lazy lounging in the back yard at home, they are sturdy enough to stand plenty of launderings.

For those who prefer colored togs which can be worn several times without need for a dip in the suds, there are denim shorts in pink and blue, cotton numbers in gold and bright yellow, and chic velvet corduroys with turned-up cuffs in a host of colors. Corduroys are selling for around $4.98.

New this season are play clothes in miracord, a rayon fabric which made its debut on the fashion market last year in afternoon dresses and blouses.

Now the popular fabric, lightweight and cool but with enough consistency to hold its shape, is tailored into trimly cut shorts in gay stripes of red, green and palest blue combined with white.

Keeping these little numbers fresh and sparkling is no trouble at all, for they launder easily and dry quickly.

There are matching miracord skirts, fashioned with unpressed pleats and wide waistbands that can be slipped on over their companion shorts. Shorts are listed at $2.95, and the skirts at $3.95.

One of the newest trends in play clothes is shining white chintz, which fashions this pert team of pocketed weskit and pedal pushers.—(NEA).

If you are clever with needle and thread, you can steal a march on fashion by following the trend of designers in California.

They are using white chintz, famed for its high shine, right out of the decorator's hand, to fashion stylish, new summer play togs.

For those of us who like to cram in as much sun-tanning as possible there are bra-like halters, which leave no unattractive white marks where shoulder straps have obliterated the sun's browning rays.

The halters, lace-edged and shaped much in the fashion of a strapless evening bra, are popular with the younger set. They come in bright red and white checked cotton and many solid colors.

She married a man of the same disposition and they have less now than when they got married. The other is very industrious. She has earned lots of money, but she has always saved a portion of it. She married a man who is also thrifty and they are getting along fine. Now I haven't a great deal of money to give my children, but I could put either one on Easy Street along with what they make themselves. What would you advise?

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Where is there the child who has never had a favorite object without which he could not sleep? This object, bedraggled and lifeless, seems a constant support in times of stress and strain.

Three-year-old Ann sucks her thumb. But this is not enough. When she collapses from play, when her mother scolds, when she is sleepy, she runs for a crib sheet which she folds and snuggles against her cheek. As soon as she is happy and revived again she casts it away.

Raymie has a brown bear and a dog—they have no other names—which he has squeezed flat with his loving embraces. He can play all morning with one or the other tucked under his arm and never a night but he must have them beside him when he is put in his bed. There has been many a frantic bedtime hunt for these elusive animals.

Another Anne has a favorite blanket. It is a crib blanket and she sleeps with one corner of it next to her face. Without it she cannot release herself into a slumber.

Billy is addicted to sucking on the corner of a white cloth, diaper, dish towel, what have you. He can put it in his mouth and run around playing while it drips with his saliva.

Alice has a blanket which must be put over her, no matter what the temperature. Her mother is resigned to putting her to bed with it and then slipping it off when she is sound asleep.

Every mother can add to this list the special objects to which her child feels a strong attachment, and with which he refuses to part no matter what the shaming and ridicule to which he is subjected.

Some mothers have tried various uses to end the children's devotion. Billy's mother took him on a two weeks' trip with the "sniff" rag and ran ahead of him into the house, on their return, to cast the last one into the garbage can.

Anne's mother cut the favorite blanket in half, then in quarters and on and on until it was a mere patch of material in her hand.

Other mothers have borne with the habit until time and new interests or some unforeseen accident have robbed the child of the object. It is plain, though, that these familiar objects give children a sense of security and help them to orient to new and strange situations and circumstances. They seem to serve a useful purpose.

Our leaflet No. 64 "Curing Bad Habits," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

BRITAIN HAS NEW PROBLEM

LEAMINGTON, Eng. (CP)—Working mothers are a new problem for British school-teachers.

Children who arrive late for lessons, untidy and without their dinner money, are generally those whose mothers go out to work.

"In nearly every case we find it is these children who are generally the most unsatisfactory," Miss C. M. Scott of Liverpool told a conference of head teachers.

The trouble simply is, said Miss Scott, that in many cases women prefer work outside the home. They'd rather do office jobs than look after junior.

"Many children leave home in the morning without having seen their mothers. They have to get ready for school themselves and prepare their own breakfasts."

BEEF AND HAM LOAF

1 lb. ground ham, raw or cooked
1 lb. ground beef
1 cup uncooked oatmeal
1 1/2 cups Carnation Milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Minced onion (optional)

Combine meat, oatmeal, Carnation Milk, seasonings. Pat into loaf shape on shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (375°F) for 1 1/2 hours. Baste occasionally with hot fat, or fruit juice. Slice 8 to 10 servings. For a decorative topping: Place 4 or 5 half-slices of canned pineapple on loaf before baking. After 1 hour baking, mix together 1/4 cup (firmly packed) brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tbsp. vinegar; pour over loaf... then let stand 15 minutes to absorb juices.

What Makes Carnation So Extra Good?

It is good, whole, cows' milk, made double-rich by evaporation. When you need milk use half Carnation and half water. When you need cream use Carnation undiluted.

It's so smoothly heavy and rich, that it whips. Use it for coffee, cereals, fruits.

Use Carnation. It saves so much on your milk and cream bill. Your grocer has it.

Miss Kay Riley, right, representing Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, welcomed honor guests, Miss Winifred Greig, Miss Gladys Beall and Mrs. Evelyn McDonnell, left to right, on arrival at school board headquarters in Craigdarroch Castle yesterday afternoon. Miss Jessie Gordon was absent when picture was taken.

Retiring after 15 years as technical education and industrial arts director, George Anstey, pictured with Mrs. Anstey, will have time for his home workshop and his hobbies, carving and gardening, at their home, 971 Milner Avenue.

Retiring Teachers Honored At School Board Reception

Five members of Greater Victoria School Board teaching staff, with a record of 178 years of teaching experience between them, were honored yesterday afternoon at a tea hour reception on the occasion of their retirement.

Honor guests were Miss Jessie McQueen Gordon, Central Junior High School; Mrs. Evelyn Leys McDonnell, Kingston Street School; Miss Gladys Winnifred Beall, Oaklands; Miss Winifred Greig, Sir James Douglas, and George Anstey, director of technical education and industrial arts for Greater Victoria School District.

Feminine guests of honor and Mrs. Anstey received corsage bouquets of rosebuds and violets and Mr. Anstey a rosebud boutonniere from Dick Reeves, who received guests as a representative of the school board. Also welcoming guests were J. F. K. English, superintendent of schools, and J. Gough, municipal inspector of schools.

Tea was served in the secretary-treasurer's room and in the board room of Craigdarroch Castle, where a silver bowl of crimson peonies, and an arrangement of yellow flags and columbine formed centrepieces.

Presiding at the urns were Mesdames R. H. Green, A. I. Curtis, A. W. Trevett, W. W. McGill, J. F. K. English, J. Gough and J. de Bourcier.

Home economics students from various schools assisted in serving, and in charge of tea arrangements were Miss Beth T. Ramsay and Miss Muriel Johnson.

Approximately 250 of their associates gathered to greet the retiring members.

With a record of 41 years of teaching in Greater Victoria to her credit, Miss Greig was one of the first teachers at Sir James Douglas School, where she also completed her teaching career. She taught chiefly primary grades.

Mrs. McDonnell also started and finished her teaching duties in the city, in the same school, having entered Kingston Street School 37 years ago. Her work also was mainly with primary classes.

Miss McQueen is well-known for her interest and work with craft classes in the city during the past few years. She began her teaching career here in 1916. Montreal-born Miss Beall has been a member of the teaching staff for 29 years. She started at Kingston Street School, and has been teaching intermediate grades.

Retiring after 37 years, Mr. Anstey was one of the pioneers in the field of industrial arts and was greatly responsible for the development in that work in this area and throughout the province. Trained in England, Mr. Anstey has been technical director for 15 years, and has also been directing night school classes.

Well-Known Member Of Sports Circle, Pat Yeamans Bride Of John Metcalfe

Creating interest in local sports circles was the marriage early last evening in First United Church uniting Patricia Marie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Walter H. Yeamans, 1612 Quadra Street, and John Ernest Metcalfe, son of Mrs. J. Silver, 1139 Elida Street.

A popular member of city bowling teams, and a member of Unity Basketball, and Red Service Softball teams, the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Glistening white taffeta created her wedding gown.

Delicate lace inserts enriched the front of the full skirt, slightly on train, and yoked the slim bodice; sleeves were long and pointed over the hands.

A bonnet headdress, set with pearls, held the cascading fingertip veil, and the bride carried a colonial bouquet of red roses, valley lily and stephanotis encircled with net.

Gleaming gold and palest green full-skirted taffeta gowns were worn by Miss Elaine Barry, maid of honor, and Miss Muriel Wallis, bridesmaid. Their floral head-dresses harmonized with the blossoms in their bouquets.

Little Linda Joy Marrior, dainty flower maid, was frocked in pale rose taffeta with Bertha collar trimmed in lace, and wide sash tied at the waist.

David MacKereth was best man and ushering were Harry Marrior and Roy Spidler.

Miss Peggy Schoen sang, "I'll Walk Beside You," while the couple signed the register.

David Thom proposed a toast to the bride at a reception in Monterey Century Room. Pale pink candles in cut glass holders flanked the wedding cake encircled in pink tulle.

Later, when Mr. and Mrs. Metcalfe left for Harrison Hot Springs, the bride wore a three-piece gabardine suit in olive green, with accessories in cinnamon brown, and Tallman roses en corsage.

They will make their home at 1239 Kingston Street.

Russian Games Blocking Danube

BELGRADE (AP)—Yugoslavia has protested that Russian naval manoeuvres on the upper Danube are blocking commercial shipping on the important central European waterway. A Yugoslav note to Russia said the naval movements—carried on four days a week since May 16—violate the 1948 Danube Convention guaranteeing free navigation on the river.

Parliament Not Directly To Decide Size Of Army

Cabinet To Determine It With Commons Control Through Voting Expenditures

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has agreed to strip away Parliament's traditional formal power to set the size of the regular army—but it still will have power of it indirectly, through control of defence expenditures.

Will Ask Test Case On Right To Picket

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council will ask the parent Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to finance a test case before the Supreme Court of Canada to establish whether or not a union has the right to picket.

The council is concerned that on a number of occasions, employers whose places of business have been picketed, have been able to obtain B.C. Supreme Court injunctions, ordering the unions to stop this practice.

Recently there have been several instances of this in Victoria. In one case, involving the Hotel and Restaurant Workers' Union, an injunction prohibiting picketing of a downtown restaurant was given by one judge, only to be lifted by another when the union appealed.

A further appeal, this time by the restaurant for a renewal of the injunction, is pending.

The local labor council, to put an end to such procedure, wishes to have the legal rights of a union to picket decided in the higher court, the Supreme Court of Canada.

'Barbecue King' Turns Out Well-Done Drug

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The "Barbecue King" is charged here with turning out well-done marijuana instead of steaks in his barbecue pit.

Police who arrested cafe owner Henry Daniels, 54, self-styled "barbecue king," Tuesday night said they found 500 marijuana plants growing on his roof and in his back yard. The plants were valued at $50,000.

This agreement came Wednesday after Defence Minister Claxton had said manpower has become far less important than equipment in modern military establishments.

Mr. Claxton indicated, too, that Canada's regular forces are virtually at the ceiling intended for them in peacetime. The ceiling envisaged, he said, is 50,000. The three services now contain just about that many men.

The discussion arose as the House sped through a 251-clause bill to consolidate and modernize defence legislation in one act, so swiftly in fact that A. L. Smith (P.C.-Calgary West) complained he had missed 12 sections when he turned away to blow his nose.

Earlier the House gave final approval to a number of bills. They included one amending the Prairie Farm Assistance Act which provides crop failure bonuses, another amending the Militia Pension Act and another embracing Senate amendments to the Income Act.

Given first reading was a measure to amend the Indian Act and a bill to provide for the operation and maintenance of a residence for the Prime Minister. The clause about the size of the army was raised by Percy Wright (C.C.F.-Melfort) who said the bill would, for the first time, place in the hands of the cabinet instead of Parliament the power to set that size. This ended a tradition that dated back to Cromwell's day in England. It was a distinct departure which members should weigh.

Mr. Claxton said the justification "is that, under existing arrangements, the number of men actually involved in the defence of any country at one time is only one of a great number of factors that constitute the control of defence."

'HICCUP STRIKE' STOPS TRAINS

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Communist-led train engineers are on a "hiccup strike" in the Milan area. About 20 trains were held up for 10 minutes each by the engineers, who are asking more money. The agitation, called "hiccup" for its on-and-off character, started last week.

Taxi Group Opposes Proposal To Ban 'Doubling Up' Of Fares In Victoria

Permission to continue their present policy of "doubling up" with respect to taxi fares, was asked in a letter received by Mayor Percy George and City Council today from the nine members of United Taxi Company, C.F.R. Docks.

The letter, referred to the Taxicab Regulation By-law, which would outlaw doubling up.

The company claimed that in cities such as Seattle and Vancouver, where doubling up is barred, passengers wait as long as an hour for transportation whereas Victoria ports are cleared of passengers within 20 minutes after a boat arrival even in the height of the tourist season.

The company said anyone wanting a cab to himself could have it and that doubling up was to the financial advantage of the passenger. The company suggested an amendment providing that all cabs must carry identification of their cab company in plain sight, as a solution, to complaints that some cabs, drive passengers "all over town" before the original fare gets home.

Bugs May Destroy Cocoa Industry

$600,000,000 Loss If Pest Cure Not Found

By GRAHAM JENKINS

ACCRA, Gold Coast (Reuter)—In 20 years it may be as difficult to get a cup of cocoa or a bar of chocolate as it was to get a drink of Scotch or a pair of nylons during the war. "Make mine vanilla" may become the order of the day, for the world's largest cocoa-producing area is threatened with extinction.

Fifteen million cocoa trees, bitten by the tiny, virus-infected mealy bugs, are dying here every year. In 20 years, there won't be any more trees, experts say, unless they can find some way of successfully combating the bug. Thus far, their efforts have been unavailing.

The only other cocoa-producing area of any importance is Bahia province, Brazil.

British experts say that 50,000,000 of the Gold Coast's 400,000,000 trees now are infected. The disease, known as swollen shoot, has devastated nearly one-third of this colony's cocoa-producing country since its discovery in 1932.

'Foreign' Recordings Of Canadian Music Released

By TERRY SHAW

The first "foreign" recordings of Canadian classical music arrived in Canada last week from London, England.

Featuring two piano compositions performed by Reginald Godden, considered by several leading critics to be Canada's leading concert pianist, and a foremost interpreter of contemporary music, the waxing was made by London Records.

As a result, the truly Canadian music of Barbara Pentland, a Vancouverite, and Ottawa's Kenneth Peacock is now available to the world.

Miss Pentland's selection "Studies in Line" is already well-known to radio and concert audiences and students. It is composed of four movements bearing sketches as titles rather than verbal titles. Miss Pentland was born in Winnipeg. Last June she was appointed to the music faculty of the U.B.C. in Vancouver.

"Bridal Suite" is 28-year-old Peacock's contribution. The composer was leader of a dance-band when he was 12, and three years later, had his A.T.C.M., which speaks for itself. The composition is a satirical piano novelty in four movements: "Something Old," "Something New," "Something Borrowed," "Something Blue."

Reginald Godden, principal of the Hamilton Conservatory of Music, was chosen to record the two works while on concert tour in Europe last December.

Gordon MacRae and Lucille Norman with Paul Weston's orchestra providing background music are featured in Capitol's new album series on selections from popular operettas.

"First of the new albums is based on Sigmund Romberg's 'New Moon.' It has six sides, the top selection being 'Stout Hearted Men,' by MacRae. Rudolph Friml's 'Vagabond King' is the second album, also a six-sided. 'Song of the Vagabonds' is the best selection in this group.

"Twin Planos, Vol. 2," is a new Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians' release on Decca. Included in the eight numbers are "Wonderbar," "Stumbling," "La Colondrina" and "National Emblem March." The pianists are Buddy Brennan and Fred Kreitzer.

Manitoba Aid To Be Above $10,000,000

WINNIPEG (CP)—An initial federal contribution toward the cost of flood rehabilitation in the Red River valley will be announced within a few days, Finance Minister Abbott said here Wednesday.

He said the money probably will be paid before the end of June to the Manitoba government, which will handle distribution among flood victims.

While he declined any specific estimate of flood damage in the worst Red River flood of a century the finance minister told a press conference it is "fair to say the dollar damage in Manitoba will be considerably in excess of that in the Fraser Valley in 1948."

(Fraser Valley damage was about $11,000,000.)

He said Ottawa will make a "substantial" contribution to the cost of rehabilitation and river-control projects to prevent a recurrence of this spring's flooding.

Mr. Abbott, returning to Ottawa by air, said he expects to have all the data he needs to recommend an initial payment. The sum would be included in his final submitted before the session of Parliament ends.

Mr. Abbott and Premier Campbell met earlier Wednesday to discuss two preliminary estimates of over-all flood damage.

"We shall now study 1,000 barks commonly mispronounced" is the suggested caption of American humorist, Arthur "Bugs" Baer, for this Irish terrier study by photographer Robert Hanks. Old "Irish" isn't always so serious, though—in fact he usually is looked upon as a rollicking rover.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Proper Amount Of Exercise Conditioned By Age, Sex

Too many take too little exercise or none at all, especially during the winter. Their muscles and circulation lack the stimulation which is provided by exercise. Often they make a second mistake by starting out on the first pleasant day of spring by trying to make up for lost time. Three or four sets of strenuous tennis after seven or eight months of desk work can be most undesirable.

How much exercise a person should take to maintain the best possible health is not easy to say. However, the strenuous athletics which is all right for a young man of 18 or 20 can harm the rapidly growing boy of 13 or the man of 40.

Age is one of the factors to take into consideration when considering exercise. The greatest amount of physical exertion can undoubtedly be taken by young men in full maturity, usually from about 18 to 25. Even at these ages, however, it is possible to overdo, especially for the man who is not "in training." Also as one correspondent recently wrote me, scholastic sports should be for amusement and not so strenuously conducted as to injure the heart.

After the late 20's there is a gradual decrease in the tolerance to strenuous physical exertion, though, of course, the ability is tremendously influenced by practice and "condition."

The sex also influences the amount and kind of physical exercise desirable. There are certain types of exercise which women can stand better than men. For example, most women can stay in cold water longer than men because they have a larger amount of fat under the skin which serves as insulating material.

The muscles of women, however, are not as a rule so well developed as those of men and their organs are so arranged that certain types of physical exertion are frequently undesirable and can cause difficulty.

WATCH HEART TROUBLE

The general health of the individual is an obvious but frequently overlooked factor in deciding what exercise is best. In practically all forms of heart disease the amount of exercise has to be decreased. Exercise after an illness or operation must be approached gradually, as the muscles have become flabby and need to be reconditioned.

The influence of the general physical condition is obvious and should, therefore, always be one of the items weighed in choosing what kind and amount of exercise to indulge in.

UNCLE RAY

In the barnyard, we find feathers lying around. They have been shed, or molted, by the fowls.

That is an old, old habit in the bird world. Whether they are of large or small size, birds shed their feathers. Usually they do this once a year.

Birds throw off their feathers bit by bit, but snakes and many other animals shed their coverings all at once. Now and then, while wandering in more or less wild places, we spy something which looks like a snake. When we get closer to it, we see that it is hollow and is simply a snake's cast-off skin.

Insects also shed their entire skins at once. Without any bones in the bodies, they have muscles which are fastened to their skins. In this way they differ from furry animals, which have muscles fastened to bones, with the help of tendons or sinews.

The typical insect has a hard or fairly hard skin. There is very little stretch in the skin, and when the body grows, what is to be done? The insect must get rid of its skin or die!

Insects have life histories of various kinds. Some shed their skins often, others rarely.

The grasshopper is an insect which casts off its skin without waiting very long to do so. It goes through six stages in the year it hatches. Shortly after coming from the egg, it makes its first molt. One week after that, it stops jumping around

TIMES DAILY SERIAL

FINGERPRINTS DON'T LIE

THE STORY: After Azalea Palmer found her father, Wendell Palmer, murdered at his home, police take the young sculptor, Paul Moody, Azalea's fiancé, into custody and charge him with the crime. Azalea, refusing to believe Paul's guilt, asks private detective Martin Queripel to clear her sweetheart of the charge. According to Azalea's story, Palmer opposed Paul's plans to marry Azalea, and interfered with Paul's career by vetoing an important art assignment which would have won him fame. Paul had been seen entering the Palmer home shortly before the murder and witnesses said he forced his way in. Paul denied any violence, and also denied touching the telephone that was used to bait Palmer's skull. Yet police say his fingerprints were found on the phone. Queripel has listened attentively to Azalea's story.

XVI
As Azalea Palmer finished her story, she knew she had convinced the detective Martin Queripel at least of the possibility of Paul Moody's innocence in the death of her father.

At last Queripel smiled and said: "You haven't a license to practice law, I suppose."

"Me? A lawyer! Why do you say that?"

"I was thinking that, if only you could be allowed to tell the story as you see it, to a jury, Paul Moody would be acquitted."

"I could kiss you for that," Azalea gasped.

EAVES DROPPER

"I'll ask no other fee," said Queripel, glowing at the prospect. But big Timothy O'Brien, Queripel's assistant, who had been listening at the door to as much of Azalea's words as he could overhear, broke into the room with:

"Here! Here! What goes on here? How are you going to pay me wages out of kisses? And what would my Nora say if I brought her home my share of this little lady's—er—oscarations?"

This caught Queripel out of his most unusual humor of gallantry. While his blushes subsided, he tried to get back to business. He said, with more rebuke to himself than to Azalea: "You have retained a good lawyer, of course."

"No, she said. 'My father's lawyer is big, pompous old ex-judge Colburn, the corporation lawyer. I begged him to save Paul, but he believes him guilty and said that he could hardly do anything for the murderer of his own client, my father.'"

"The court set Paul's bail at $25,000. I implored Judge Colburn to let me put up the money, but he said that the will hadn't been probated yet. He's the executor, but he wouldn't advance the money, and so poor Paul has to stay in jail. It's driving me insane."

"That old dodo of a Judge Colburn dared to rebuke me. He said, 'Instead of trying to save this fellow you're infatuated with, oughtn't you to be mourning for your poor father?'"

"I struck back at him: 'You let me mourn my father my own way. I loved him. He loved me. He hated Paul, but that was because he didn't want to let anybody take me out of his lonely life. Some horrible person killed by father for some mysterious reason. I'll keep on trying till he is found and my father's death avenged.'"

"Judge Colburn answered: 'You'll regret this, my child. And I said 'Somebody else will regret it more. If there's any real justice in the world.'"

"She spoke with the fierce conviction and the unwavering faith in life that only the young and the little-experienced can cherish. Queripel loved her for her ferocity and hated to bring her back to the harsh realities, but he said:

"Still, my dear, the only way to use the law or escape it, is by way of a lawyer. Had you thought of engaging Harry Hodges to defend Paul Moody?"

By Rupert Hughes

She nodded. "Judge Colburn advised him; but I said that hiring him would be the same as pleading guilty and trying to squirm out. Harry Hodges is famous for getting killers acquitted; but Paul Moody isn't a killer."

By this time Queripel was so enlisted in her cause, so determined to save Paul Moody for her sweet wild sake, that he was already a partner of hers in a conspiracy to defeat the police, if not justice itself.

After some thought, he said: "I think I know just the man you need. He's young; he's brilliant; he knows the law, its loopholes and its knots. His name is Harley Kenyon. He's a fighter. And he needs the money and the practice."

"Nice name," said Azalea, with a womanly logic of instant decision. "Please engage him, and tell him the situation. I'll pay his fee, whatever it is."

Queripel, still the gallant, and hardly recognizing himself in this new mood, decided that, if Harley Kenyon once looked into those diamonds behind Azalea's eyelashes, he would turn the world upside down to get her heart's desire—unless, perhaps, the young lawyer should decide to get Moody out of the way and take Azalea herself for his fee. He said:

"I think I'd better let you talk to him yourself. I'll see if I can get him to come here right now. His office is in this building."

He dialed Kenyon's telephone and caught the young lawyer "just dashing out to an important appointment."

Azalea heard Queripel say: "Break that appointment. Come here at once. It's a matter of life and death."

He put down the receiver and smiled at Azalea.

"He's half way here by now."
